YEAR OF

Nineteen ninety-one was the year of e'xci'tement. Because the seniors had such spirit and the Roman numeral 91 was "XCI", the theme of e'xci'tement seemed appropriate. It had been said that this graduating class had much more enthusiasm than past classes.

-Rebecca Karnak

Math teacher, Paul Serra showing a lot of excitement in his classroom.

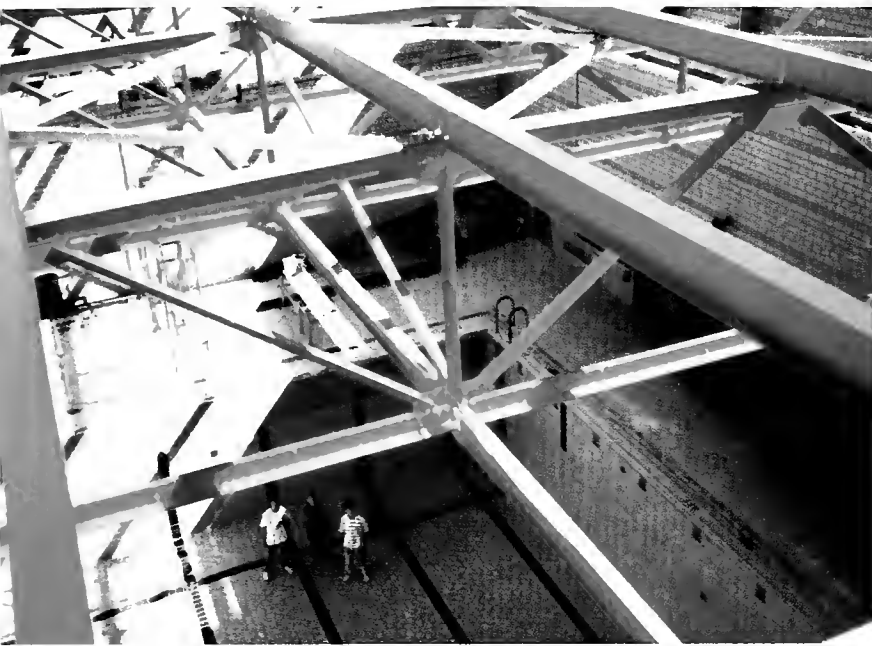

The cheerleaders not only led cheers for the football fans but also did much to instill excitement in the players minds by helping out with signs and other work.

The football team could usually be counted on to supply a lot of excitement along the sidelines during a football game. The intensity was always present as evidenced by the player's expressions.

E'XCI'TEMENT

Exciting changes occurred at Euclid High School this year. Here Ed Galosi, Jeff Kaleal and Robert Galosi look up at the new roof that was being installed on the girl's pool.

Steve Sirk gave the Junior Varsity football team many exciting moments when he kicked field goals.

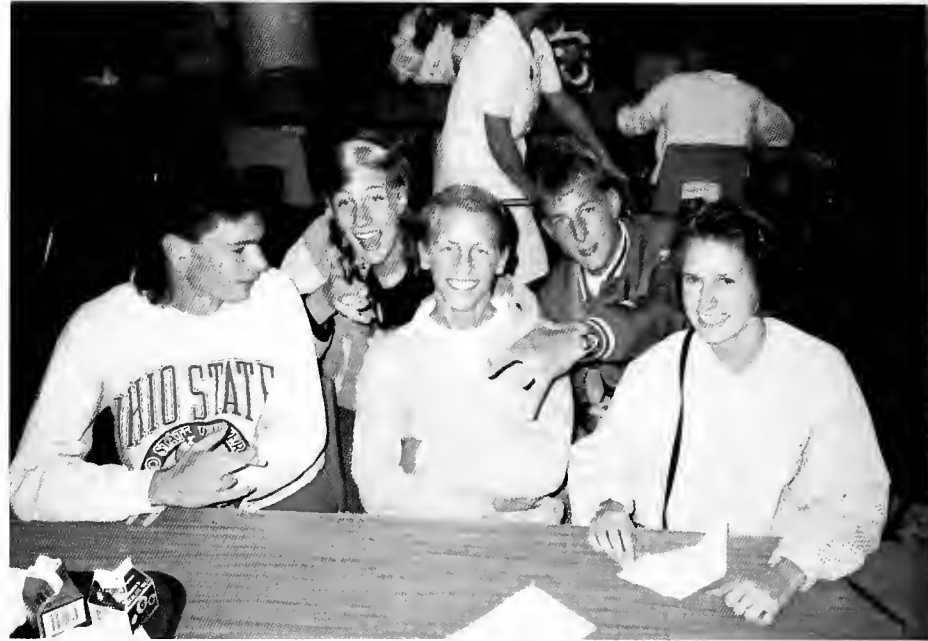

Adam Reichman and Jennifer Simenc seem excited about computers while Mr. Brearton checks their work.

Michelle Secic, Jessica Kovac and Kerri Alesnik seem excited to get to class.

STUDENT

Dan Burke and Mark Del Monte show Dominic Soric, Sean Socha and Erin Fox all the different ways they can pick up food in the cafeteria.

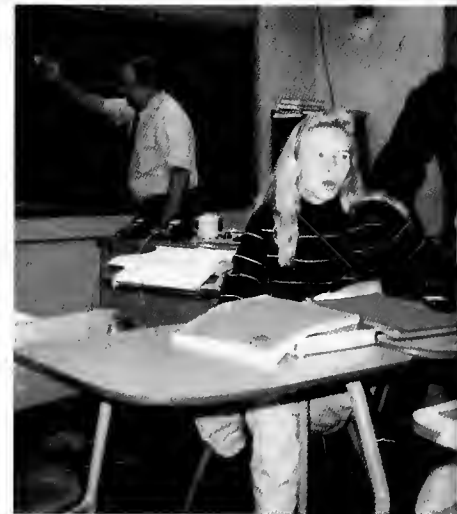

The life of a student here at Euclid High was full of many opportunities. Classes taught by the fine staff were offered in many different areas of study, ranging anywhere from basic electives to required courses. The strong academic curriculum was complimented by a wide variety of extracurricular activities. Competitive sports teams, clubs and organizations took up much of the time outside of the classroom. Many students dedicated themselves to the Student Council and the Executive Board of Student Council. Socially, students found such opportunities as dances, sporting events and swim-and-gyms.

Yet student life went beyond high school. Many held part-time jobs. Some also devoted their time to volunteer work at the local hospital and to various church-affiliated organizations, as well as keeping up with their own family responsibilities. In general, Euclid students involved themselves in these different aspects of student life.

LIFE

The Majorettes and Flag Corps stand at attention while the Marching Band plays the National Anthem and the Alma Mater.

Hail to thee, O Euclid High School
To thy name all praise we sing.
Happy days of youthful pleasure,
Learning, living, life so dear.
Our hearts fill with gratitude for all that is to be;
Alma Mater Euclid High School,
All our praise we sing to thee.

Where the blue of Erie's waters
Casts the sun's bright golden rays,
There all Euclid's sons and daughters
Sing the joys of student days.
If after days be dark and drear,
And storms of life draw nigh,
The memories of our friendships here
Will lift our hearts to Euclid high.

EUCLID HAS

Euclid students show that interest is important

Euclid High School spirit overflowed this year as the Class of e'XCITement counted down the days until graduation. Many activities were set up to enhance that school spirit such as dances, pep rallies and assemblies. A source of spirit from which much of the spirit came were the Euclid Varsity Cheerleaders. They added more spirit to the football games and pep rallies. So show your spirit and stay blue and gold at heart.

-Liz Mazzei

The Euclid Panther mascot and the varsity football cheerleaders did much to inject spirit into both the players and the spectators.

SPIRIT

The crowd brought support and spirit to the Euclid teams while the spiritware that was available allowed each person a chance to express their enthusiasm.

Bob Yoe shows his spirit as he goes smashing through the spirit banner that the cheerleaders had prepared while Mr. Dan Maxson tries to stir up some spirit in the volleyball team.

Storage

Lockers are a students home away from home

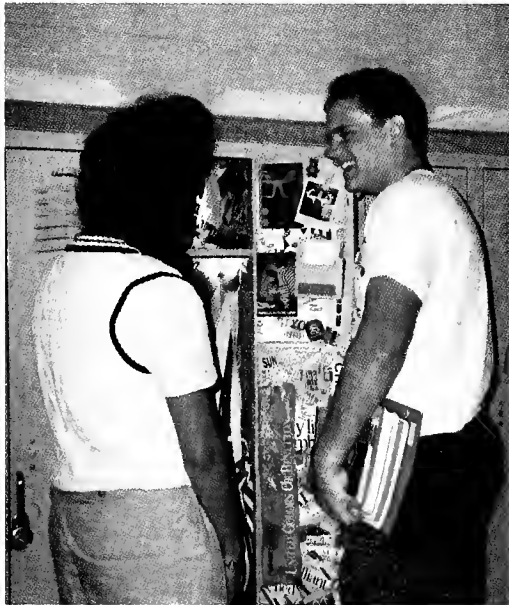

A locker is but one of the many integral parts incorporated within the life of a Euclid student. A locker is the place in which a student's thoughts as well as books and personal belongings are collected; a safety deposit box of sorts if you will. Not only do they store a student's physical valuables, but also symbolize the true value of knowledge to the student. Lockers also provide a convenient meeting place for friends and could be considered the one place within the school that a student could truly call his own. One could not help but agree, that a student's locker is more than simply a metal box.

-Carla Matiaska

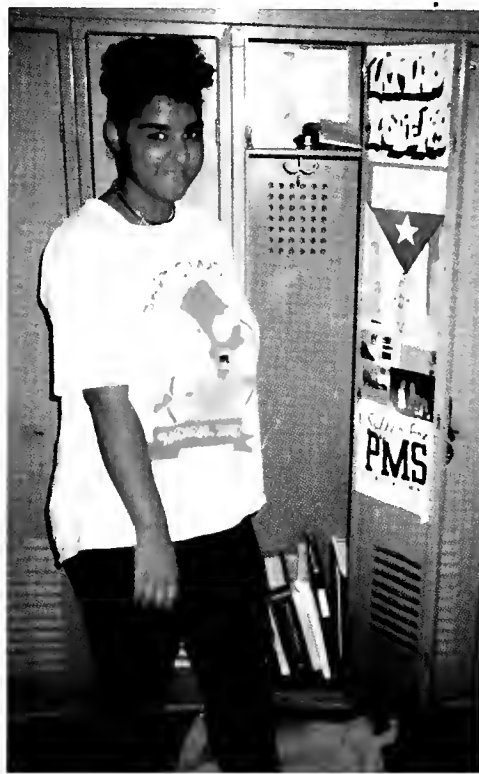

Becky Weaver and Meredith FitzGerald show off their lockers.

Jennifer Melnyk and Eric Wandersleben find that their locker is a good meeting place while Denise Riedel, Lisa Riedel and Adrienne Troha socialize around their lockers. Hope Robinson, meanwhile, shows off her spirit.

It Didn't Rain...

Homecoming game was played under perfect conditions

This year's Homecoming game was seen by a sold out home crowd of 4,500 avid fans. They didn't leave disappointed either. The Panthers defeated Mayfield by the score of 21-7. The Panthers had a comfortable lead at halftime of fourteen points, thanks to touchdowns scored by Rob Zele and Tony Shaw.

As tradition would have it, the halftime show shed the spotlight on the 1990 Homecoming King and Queen. This year saw Liz Mazzei and Rob Zele win these awards.

The Panthers took the field for the third quarter and quickly took a 21-0 lead on another touchdown run by Rob Zele. From there the Panthers went on to win 21-7.

After the game the fans were treated to a spectacular fireworks extravaganza. In all, the entire weekend was a moment to remember for all Euclid students and alumni.

Night On The Town

Homecoming dance has lots of glitter

Homecoming held on October 6th at 7:30 was definitely a Night on the Town. Student Council succeeded in transforming the E-Room into the exciting streets of downtown New York. Silhouettes, top hats, and lamp posts brought the city alive with a flair all its own. New Vogue in 1990 refreshed the scene with a red carpet, carnations on sale and a king to reign next to the queen. Liz Mazzei was crowned queen as Rob Zele became the first King of Homecoming. First senior attendants were Theresa Oden and Matt Garbincus and Second senior attendants were Brandy Nickell and Darnell Scott. The rest of the shining court were junior attendants Meghan Gorman and Mike Di Bartolomeo and Sophomore Attendants Laura Nickell and Adam Reichman. The Homecoming court led the way to a special and sparkling evening. Pictures, intimate dances, balloons fell to the memories of a Night on the Town. Each couple left with champagne glasses filled with chocolate kisses and thoughts of many kisses to come.

New this year was the Whittle Communications system which enabled the candidates to make a presentation to the homerooms. Here, soon to be Queen and King, Liz Mazzei and Rob Zele make their presentations.

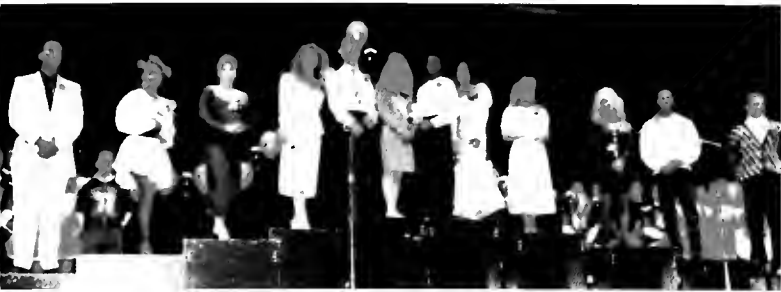

The E-Room Ballroom was bursting with balloons and silhouettes for the dance. Chrissy Shaeffer and Jason Socha pose in front of the glittering bridge. Student Council president Lee Jackson introduces candidate Kelli Newman who was escorted by Scott Gould.

Workin' Stiff

Jobs play a great part in student's life

Jobs have certainly changed the way high school students look at life. Many years ago students looked forward to getting a job after they got out of high school. Now, many students look upon high school as an interference with the jobs that they have. It has been estimated that over fifty per cent of the students at Euclid have some sort of a part-time job after school or on week-ends. The types of jobs range from delivery of newspapers to sales positions at stores to shop workers. Many of the jobs are at Euclid Square Mall but most stores in Euclid have some student help.

Reasons given for having a job include having money to buy clothes, entertainment and saving money for college. Most of the money earned, however, probably goes for clothes and entertainment with very little being saved. Since the minimum wage is $3.85 per hour and many Euclid students are earning comparable wages it takes a lot of work time to earn a reasonable amount of money. At least the students are learning to be more responsible.

Romance In Paris

Winterfest takes students across the sea

On February 9, Student Council held its annual Winterfest dance in the E-Room. Approximately 400 people attended the festivities and were treated to a night filled with good friends, refreshments and dancing. The theme, Romance in Paris, was enhanced by the marvelous decorations presented in the French motif, which included a sidewalk cafe.

This year, the selection process for the Winterfest King and Queen proceeded differently than in the past. Potential candidates had to submit an essay to the Executive Board of Student Council describing their feelings about representing Euclid High School. The best of the essays were then selected by Student Council to be candidates for King or Queen. This was done in order to cut down on the number of candidates.

The night saw Vidal Curry crowned as King, while Brian Sargent was the first runner-up and Ernie Perna took second runner-up. Patti Burke was crowned as Winterfest Queen, while the first runner-up was Shelley Tobias, followed by second runner-up, Janene Zakrajsek. Third and fourth runner-ups were Maureen Hannan and Donna Hoag respectively. The crowning ceremonies were held mid-way through the dance and culminated with the traditional court dance.

The evening went smoothly and Student Council should again be commended for their time and effort in making the dance a success and for creating memories that the attendees will cherish for a long time.

In Euclid High School there were many activities that a student could become involved with. These activities include groups like the school newspaper, the school yearbook, Student Council, Chess Club, Audio-Visual Club, the many vocal and instrumental music groups, Key Club and many others. There are many different activities to choose from to fit the student's interests. These activities not only led to a more enjoyable high school experience but were also helpful in getting into college and preparing for the future.

Marching On The Field

Marching Band provides excitement during halftime for football fans

Under the direction of Mr. Stephen Alspaugh, the Marching Band reached new heights. The season was kicked off by traveling to neighboring Pennsylvania for Band Camp. This was the first time that the Marching Band ever went out of state for a band camp. Following that, every Friday night the football fans could come out and enjoy their half-time shows, which included modern songs such as Paula Abdul's "Cold Hearted Snake", Madonna's "Vogue", and a different dance chart for each show.

Along with Euclid football games they traveled to Delaware, Ohio and played at the Ohio Wesleyan homecoming game and went to Hiram, Ohio to play at the Hiram homecoming game. In addition to college games they went to competition and received a state rating. The highlight of their season came when they once again traveled out of state, this time to represent Euclid in the Detroit Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Twirling Around

Majorettes add glitter to halftime

This year's majorette squad was made up of nine fabulous twirlers. They attended both a camp at Ashland College and the school's band camp here at Euclid. At Ashland College they received many awards from twirling to spirit. They were also chosen to twirl in San Diego, California, and also attended the Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit, Michigan. Lisa Riedel and Jennifer Beck were the co-captains of the 1990 majorette squad.

The Euclid Flag Corps started their season by going to Marching Auxiliaries camp at Ashland College. They stayed for four days and three nights. There they learned different techniques and routines and were given personal evaluations. The Corp got to meet many new people from other area schools. At the competition on the final day, the Corp performed a routine for which they won a Grand Champion Trophy. They, along with the Majorettes, were voted by the other schools at the camp the school with the most spirit.

During August, the Flags practiced hard with the band. The Flags also gave up their time to practice with the band at lunch time and after-school. Faculty advisor Deborah Houchins and co-captains Jennifer Krasnik and Shelley Tobias along with the rest of the Corp gave it their all to make it a great year.

Symphonic Sounds

Wind Ensemble is the best of Euclid's bands

The 1990-91 Symphonic Wind Ensemble started out another year with band director Mr. Stephen Alspaugh. The members of the Symphonic Wind Ensemble were chosen by their audition. Each member had to play a prepared piece and a sight reading piece. Their seats were chosen by how well they performed both of these pieces. Members were encouraged to attend the annual district OMEA contest. The Symphonic Wind Ensemble performed concerts in February and May. These students gained appreciation for all types of music throughout the entire year.

Instrumental Sounds

Concert Band continues after Marching Band

After the football season came to an end, many Marching Band members joined the Concert Band. Under the direction of Mr. Stephen Alspaugh, the members worked very hard for their performance in the February and May concerts. The members in Concert Band improved all of their musical skills by practicing every day. With hard work and dedication, these students could also be part of the Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

Sounds Of Music

Orchestra gives musical opportunities

This year's Orchestra lacked anything but talent. From the highly talented and experienced cellists, Kim Miller and Jonasis Smith, to the new members who possessed their talents in both the violin and cello sections. Without any viola players and only one base player, Darryl East (Vice President), the Orchestra played the Hallelujah with much beauty. Mrs. Lisa Cheshier brought together all the different members of the group along with the principal players of the Symphonic Wind Ensemble two days a week to create a harmonious orchestra.

Raising Their Voices

Euclid's choirs add vocal interest

Choraliers, Row one: Nicole Hudspath, Rachel Norton, Lisa Primosch, Jessie Jakimowicz, Dina Mc Closkey, Denise Kukla, Elizabeth Muzinic, Sandra Carrera, Carrie Belavich, Erin Smith, Nickie Lott, Karen Kollar, Erin Harsch, Kadohi Uchida, JoAnne Zakrajsek, Nicole Phillips, Suzanne Eckert. Row two: Chrissy Zakrajsek, Sandra Johnson, Casey Cool, Rachel Chitwood, Sarah Chitwood, Despina Pagonis, Terri De Panicis, Melonie Foree, Nictoya Logan, Laura Kuncik, Heather Hughes, Chrissy Sergio, Tiffany Highland, Jane Miller, Isis Clark, Kristal Baker, Nichole Witten, Calli Ciomek, Danielle Milinski.

Choral Masters, led by Mr. Paul Newell, met everyday during the third period to practice. They performed on stage with Varsity Chorale and solo at the Pops, Winter and Spring Concerts. Choral Masters also enjoyed bringing joy to the elderly during the holidays. Each individual member selected matured throughout the year in both sound and technique.

Choraliers was a choir made up of freshmen girls. They developed a unique sound of their own with tender young voices. Hopes of being in either Choral Masters or Varsity Chorale their next year was a predominant thought in their minds.

Choraliers and Choral Masters were two striving choir groups that produced the vocal talent in subsequent years. Though sometimes in the shadows of the other choral groups, each groups' enthusiasm gave life to their songs.

And All That Jazz

Jazz band plays some modern sounds

Reverberating off the fabled halls of Euclid High School once again were the sounds of E. 222nd Street Jazz, Euclid High's premier (albeit only), Jazz Big Band. Bass lines of Funk were mixed with riffs of Jam and driven by a thundering beat. This was E. 222nd Street Jazz's second year and, therefore, a 'year of transition'. Many great players graduated to bigger but not necessarily better things, while new 'would be' Charlie Parkers, Louis Armstrongs, John Waltaimes and Maynerd Fergesons emerged to take their places.

This year was very busy for the East 222nd Street Jazz Band since they began with a competition at the Lakeland Jazz Fest. That was followed by a trip to Boston with the Varsity Chorale. So with a little luck, skill, and blues, East 222nd Street Jazz will begin to enter a realm beyond time, space, and angry dinosaurs named George.

The band was directed by Mr. Stephen Alspaugh and practiced on Tuesday evenings.

Singing And Swaying

Varsity Chorale puts show into tunes

Once again Varsity Chorale took some new steps. This year, Varsity Chorale was made up of 28 singers and dancers and an additional 6 dances. The officers of this past year were President Sheri Gezann, Vice President Dianne Baird, Secretary Hope Robinson and Treasurers Debra Long and Mike Karabinus. This year, V.C. had become a regular class, meeting every day and also on Monday nights. In addition to all of their performances in and around Euclid, including The Arcade, The American Italian Hall and IX Center, they went to Boston with the Jazz Band for a competition. Although this was only Mr. Newell's second year, he made the same things happen.

Cheerleaders give support to the team

The cheerleading season was by far one of the longest. It all started in May when try-outs began. All of the girls had to perform gymnastic skills, a dance routine, a chant and a cheer in front of five to six experienced judges. The setting was very tense and competition was stiff. Only eight to twelve girls were allowed for each squad.

After the try-outs was the job of getting ready for camp, which was time and money consuming. The girls spent many hours perfecting cheers and chants for camp competition. Each girl also spent nearly $200.00 on the camp fee and the cost of uniforms.

Football season was a very hectic time for all of the girls. Practicing, and decorating houses and lockers kept them very busy. There were many cold and rainy games, but the cheerleaders stuck it out and cheered the Panthers through their wins and losses.

Cheerleading for basketball was, as always, very long and tedious for the cheerleaders. There were 22 games during a period of 3 months. Most of the games were on Fridays and Saturdays so the girls gave up many of those nights to cheer on their Panthers.

During much of the season, some of the cheerleaders were ill, so they had to cooperate together to trade off games so that everyone had a fair share of the work and the nights off.

Nevertheless, the season was a success because the players seemed genuinely appreciative of the time and money the girls put into the games, and the spirit that they generated throughout the season.

School Government

Student Council reorganizes to consolidate activities

The one word that best described Student Council this year was change. The Class Cabinet and Cultural Club were both ended. The projects and authority from these clubs was designated to Student Council. The Executive Board, consisting of ten seniors, four juniors, and one sophomore had the deciding vote on many ideas and problems.

The clashing of tradition and modernization seemed to be the main problem this year. Between old and new members of the Executive Board having power, the traditional ideals of Student Council were lost in the shuffle.

Unfortunately, because of a low turnout, informal dances were eliminated. Student Council focused on many other events such as the Train Show, decorating the Cafeteria for the holidays, the community Halloween party, the Fashion Show, decorating for Homecoming and Winterfest and organizing the Student Council Workshop for other schools. Fundraisers put on included Turkey Grams and Holiday Wishes to name a few. Their main concern this year was the Annual Senior Citizen Prom.

Lee Jackson as President, Hope Schmidt as Vice President and Shelley Tobias as Vice President of Finance with the help of the Executive Board led Student Council to success. All the little things Student Council does for the school were not always mentioned but were appreciated.

Close To The Action

Close Up goes to Washington to see how it runs

The Close-Up program this year was sponsored by Mr. Wayne Smith. Close-Up involves a student field trip to Washington D.C. that lasts for one week. It not only allows the students to view the many tourist attractions of the city, but also gives the students the opportunity to talk with those people who are the most influential in American politics. In order to pay for this trip, the students sold candy throughout the year. Perhaps the most valuable experience for the group were the new friendships that were made and the different people that were met with whom they shared this informative experience.

They Can Help You Find It

Library Aides help keep the library in order

Have you ever wondered how the books get perfectly arranged on the shelves in numerical order? Well, that's the work of the Library Aides. During their study halls, lunch periods, and after school, these helpful students put the books in order and help the librarians in any way that they can. Along with shelving the books, they helped design showcases, file pamphlets and run errands. We must thank these helpful students because they make the librarians' jobs easier.

Clinic aides help with the unhealthy

What did a clinic runner do? Basically they did just what their name says: they ran errands for the health aides in the clinic. But don't get the wrong idea-it's not an easy job. From the moment these dedicated young men and women set foot in the clinic, they were sent on various trips throughout the school; whether it was getting the belongings of a sick person from their locker, getting kids out of class, or filling the teachers' mailboxes. Occasionally, they took on the duty of a secretary: answering a phone when everyone else is busy, filing, putting forms together, making copies, etc. All in all the clinic runners help to keep the clinic running smoothly.

Row four: Steve Burke, Solvy Mayr. Row five: Amy Garbincus, Eric Osborne, Jennifer Hiser, Gretchen Heck, Suzi Brkic, Dave Kramer, Cassidy Rocco, Becky Hopkins, Ann Kelly.

The American Field Service is a club that deals with cultural understanding. This year three students visited Euclid High through the AFS exchange. These students included Gaby Sanadio from Venezuela, Veronika Schnell from Germany, and Kadohi Uchida from Japan. Not only does the club receive students from other countries, it gives American students the opportunity to travel abroad.

The club is not only about traveling. Through the course of the year AFS had many activities. These events gave the exchange students a chance to get to know other students and to learn about American culture. Some activities included a Halloween Party at Metroparks, dinner in the flats, a December holiday party, and short term exchange.

Mrs. Ramlow and Miss Addis, the club advisors, do a fine job of keeping the club organized and making the exchange students feel at home. Through American Field Service students have the opportunity to learn about the people of the world, and enjoy themselves in the process.

Chess Club gives students a chance to learn a game of planning

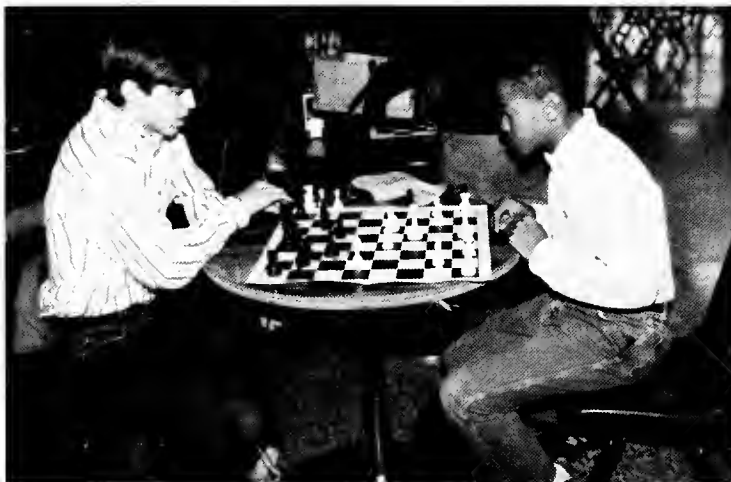

The Chess Club, advised by Mr. Thaxton, consisted of eight people. This group practiced every day after school, preparing for the weekly game. In addition to the regular twelve week season, the club also participated in various tournaments throughout the year. The team placed first in the Greater Cleveland Scholastic Chess Tournament in the junior varsity section. Bostjan Brumen finished first in the individual tournament. The team is looking forward to another winning season next year.

A History Of The Year

The yearbook tries to record everything that happened throughout the year

A yearbook is much more than a collage of memories and pictures of classmates and friends that one has made throughout high school. As this year's staff discovered it was also a tremendous amount of hard work and dedication. They worked endlessly to meet deadline after deadline during the entire year to compile the best possible profile of Euclid High. The theme of e'xci'tement was present throughout the book as it was dedicated to the class of 1991.

In the continuous effort to make the yearbook better than last year's, the staff involved the Marketing Education classes this year in order to sell advertisements to local businesses. The book has an amazing 48 pages of color as well as offering the option to parents to be a Picture Patron for their child as well as just a patron. Although not many parents took advantage of this, it is hoped it will become more popular in future books. Much thanks and appreciation go to the book's advisor, Mr. Von Benken, who devoted much of his time to this publication and without whose help such a book would not be possible.

Helping Out Their Classmates

Peer tutors allow students to help each other

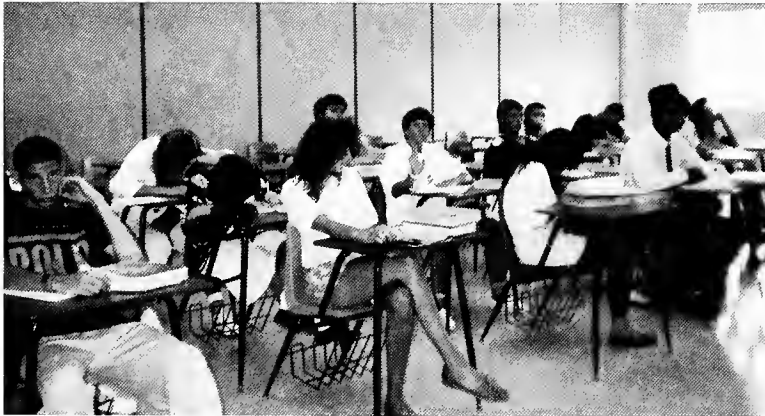

Peer Tutors is a group of students who have volunteered to help other students who are doing poorly or just need some extra help. Tutors are usually recommended by their teachers in a subject at which they excelled. Students who need help go to their counselor to sign up for a tutor.

The program is organized by Miss Barbara Spiga, who does an excellent job of matching students with tutors. After receiving notification of a tutoring assignment, the tutors meet with their tutees in the library, during study hall, lunch, or after school, for about three weeks. The tutee then has a choice of continuing with the tutor or trying to succeed on their own.

-Rebecca Karnak

Some of the students in these classes could probably benefit from a peer tutor.

Helping The School Operate

Office aides help the administration

Secretaries are very important to the smooth operation of the unit offices and the entire school. Their job isn't easy and it would be a lot harder if it wasn't for the help of the office aides who allowed the secretaries to do their jobs with less work. These students, who sacrificed a study hall to help do all the little things, like locating students, delivering messages and general secretarial work, that make the secretaries' job so tedious. This gave the secretaries more time to do the more important jobs to keep the office organized. These students were great helpers and greatly appreciated.

Not only journalists, but many talented computer programmers were added to this year's staff. Behind the scenes, a new modern production process developed. The joining of tradition with the future of computers helped the staff bring the news to the school. Dedicated advisors helped to make these exchanges of knowledge easier. The writing staff and computer programmers should be proud of the end product. Working together made things easier and definitely much more fun.

Preparing For Business World

D.E.C.A. introduces students to business

D.E.C.A. (Distributive Education Clubs of America) was the student run club that co-insided with Euclid's Marketing Education class. Euclid's program was designed for juniors and seniors who were interested in a career in marketing and management. In their junior year, the students attended classes and studied the stock market, business finance, marketing research and many other business related activities. Seniors spent part of their day in school learning about everything from job interviewing, to advertising and sales. During the remainder of the day they were employed in retail establishments within the Euclid area in a variety of retail, wholesale, or service capacities. In D.E.C.A., students competed against other high school students on the local, state and national level in areas related to their career interest. Mr. Presot was in charge of the organization.

Model U.N. helps students learn about the countries in the world

Delegates went into the international realm of the United Nations. No not the real United Nations, but Model U.N. Delegates representing different countries debated at Cleveland State four times this year. Having the power of a country on their shoulder, they took what they knew, and decided a mock future for the world. Through many interesting experiences, the group got close together. Led by officers Bill Aube, Erin Fox, Christine Schaefer, Jason Socha and June U, the experience of solving world problems became more and more real. Hopes of more intense debates are looked forward to next year.

Intense, vocal people, problem solvers, and researchers are always welcomed into the group. The future is in our hands.

The National Honor Society was composed of the best students at Euclid High School. Not only did members perform well academically, but they also demonstrated leadership, character, and service. Students were selected during their junior year to be a part of this society on the basis of these four characteristics, and were formally inducted in May.

The 1990-1991 National Honor Society president was Jason Socha. Also elected by the club was vice president Phaedra Moore, secretary Erin Fox, and historian Kim Mikich. Advisor Bette Schmeling helped organize the club and its events. The society sponsored ice cream socials and donut breakfasts to commend students who made the distinguished honor or honor roll during the graduating period.

Doing Her Own Thing

Fall Play dealt with adolescent girl's desire to play football

The Fall Play of 1990 was the production of "Time Out for Ginger." It was the story of a high-spirited fourteen year old girl who was determined to try out for the high school football team. Virginia Carol (Debbie Long) came to such decisions after her father, Howard Carol's (H.J. DeBoe) speech to the student body supporting students in doing what they want to do. Therefore, Ginger received support from her father who wanted to relive his past history as a football player. Add some motherly advice from mother Agnes Carol (Michelle Wagner), stubborn objections from sisters Joan (Katie Ells) and Jean (Candi Lukat) and an amazing reenactment of Ginger's touchdown scene and you have a humorous, fast-paced family comedy. The cast also included Liz (Wendy Wang), Tommy Green (Jim Master-son), Eddie (Keith Olszens), Ed Hoffman (Mike Karabinus) and Barbara Wilson (Kim Taylor). The cast was under the direction of Mr. Frank Mularo and assistant director Ms. Judith Carmody.

In 1990, there were two Holiday Plays, "The Legend of Great January" and "Trouble in the Toy Shop". In "Trouble in the Toy Shop", the elves got sick of being bossed around by Kringle-Kringle and Jingle and Jangle. So they took over the toy shop. By taking turns in the bosses chair they found out that the best system was the one they had. They made numerous mistakes including Pink Mutant Turtles, Battling Bullfrogs and a green and white striped Dance Magic Barbie. The other problem was that the elves couldn't find Kringle-Kringle, but thanks to "Pete the talking Pine Tree" they found her and invited her back.

The play was viewed by the 1st and 2nd graders from both Public and Parochial schools. The play also got to play to an extended audience from Thomas Jefferson after they had to evacuate their building. The play also played for two medium sized public audiences on Friday and Saturday. As always the play was written and directed by Miss Carmody.

Key Club helps the school and community

Key Club was a service organization for high school students. The Key Club provided service to the home, school, and community. The Euclid Key Club provided the community two pancake breakfasts in the cafeteria. They also helped with the D.A.R.E. graduation, and had a Christmas party at Rosemary Home. They also helped set up for both parent-teacher conferences. In support of the troops, they passed out orange ribbons during lunch and at a Friday night basketball game. They sent eight members to the Ohio District Key Club Convention held in Columbus. Among the members sent were the 1990-1991 officers; President: Maureen Hannan; 1st Vice-President: Amora Francis; 2nd Vice-President: Darrell Lausche; Secretary: Mary Dengel; and Secretary Treasurer: Keith Scheurman. They also hosted the Zone Leadership Training Conference. They continued to provide service to the home, school and community throughout the year.

Euclid students compete in Science Olympiad

One might ask, "What is Science Olympiad?" Quite simply, it was the high school version of the real thing, but, involving brains rather than braun. Some of the 22 events included "Bridge Building", "Scrambler", "Get Your Bearings", "Science Bowl", and "Circuit Lab", to name a few.

This year interest was more than doubled after last year's 8th place finish- just 2 places shy of going to the state finals. Under the watchful eye of Mr. Wherley, and Ms. Torrelli, the team had regular meetings at which they discussed strategies and carefully chose the competitors, 15 in all. On February 23, this elite group converged on the campus of Case Western Reserve University and competed against 14 other high schools from the Cleveland area.

-Ed Galosi

Science Olympiad members: Sue U, Adviser, Mr. Wherley, Rob Galosi, St Doboze, Jun U, Adviser, Mrs. Torrelli.

After a grueling screening process, the choices were made, and a team of four emerged. Their mission, to win. Their plan, to practice. And practice they did, with flashcards, with teachers, and in a humiliating scrimmage with the mighty Hawken. The day finally arrived at Bowling Green State University for the taping of the High School Whiz Quiz. The teams were set, Lakewood vs. Euclid and an extremely close game ensued. After five rounds of interrogation, the scores were in; Euclid, 300, Lakewood, 380. A margin of 1.5 questions. The team members consisted of Captain, Kevin Vance, Bill Aube, and Tadas Gelazis with alternate, Mike Cating. Even though they lost they learned a lot and should be better prepared for the next time.

about the dangers of driving drunk

Although only having been in its second year Euclid's Students Against Driving Drunk tried to save needless Drunk driving deaths and teenage drinking. SADD participated in the Tie-One-On the holiday ribbon campaign and celebrated National Drug Awareness Week. SADD also offered discount limosines to Prom and promoted alcohol and drug awareness. SADD was led by President Kevin Vance, Vice-President Amy Smith, Treasurer Emily Smayda, and Secretary Michelle Berzinskis. The advisors were Mrs. Paskert and Miss Stroup. Valuable assistance was added by the Euclid Police Liasons to the schools, Officer Al Bush.

Halloween dress-up day brings back old memories

The strange and unusual walked the halls, from witches and cats to dice and flower people. Scary faces encountered baby faces and the Halloween School Dress-Up Contest proved to be another success. Some of the teachers even got in the spirit. A video tape recorded all the memories from the lunch periods and the next morning, thanks to the Whittle Communications equipment, the memories were relived. Such memories, as the hula-skirt guys, the evangelistic sisters, and the meals on wheels, won't be forgotten. The goblins and ghosts continued through the night while Student Council put on their annual Community Halloween Party for the little ones in Euclid. Another Halloween went by and Euclid High didn't vanish.

Doing It Together of synchronized swimming Wai Napolo shows the beauty

Wai Napolo was Euclid's Synchronized Swim Club. It's purpose was to put on its annual swim show in the Spring. The theme for this year's show was the 50's and the 60's. The girls picked music from this era and designed their swim numbers around it.

There were more problems than usual this year since both the boy's and girl's pools were being repaired. The boy's pool was opened in the Fall but the swim team had to use it so the Wai Napolo girls were not able to practice during the Fall.

The president for the year was Kimberly Taylor and the vice president was Sheri Gezann. Mrs. Katie Morris and Debby Turpin were the advisors.

Helping The Players

Sport's aides work behind the scenes to keep the players playing

The football aides were probably the most underrated people on the football team. Euclid's football aides gave all of their free time dedicating themselves to helping the players, taping the player's various injuries, getting them water during the game and helping out the equipment manager Jack Lardomita. They were the people who did much work 'behind the scenes' so that the games could be played without any major problems.

SPORTS

Along with the wide range of extracurricular activities, Euclid offers a strong athletic program. Euclid has teams that are members of the always competitive Greater Cleveland Conference, as well as the indoor track team and hockey team which are not part of the G.C.C. Coinciding with the athletic program are outstanding facilities, including two pools, an indoor and an outdoor track, a weight room with various exercise machines and free weights, and many practice fields for the various sports. Euclid's fine staff of coaches has done a great job with the athletes, but stresses the importance of academics, even in athletics.

Close But No G.C.C.

Euclid loses title in final minutes of season

This year was a season of hills and valleys for the Varsity Football team. They failed to get off to a good start by losing their first game to Cleveland Heights. From there, they went from the frying pan right into the fire against St. Ignatius. With an 0-2 record, they bounced back winning six of their next seven games. That set up their final confrontation of the season, Mentor. The game was very exciting and Euclid played tough the entire game, with their never-say-die attitude, but lost in the final minutes 27-20.

There were many players awarded all G.C.C. honors. At the top was All G.C.C. M.V.P. Rob Zele, who also won defensive player of the year from the News Herald. First team All G.C.C. went to Darnell Scott, Dave Sheck, Mike Sheridan, Ken Walter, Derrick Willis and Tom Zovko. At All G.C.C. second team was Harold Andrews, Ron Slusarski and Ed Zivnoska. Honorable mention went to Tony Shaw and Robert Yoe.

Disappointing Season

J.V. Football suffered some tough breaks

The Junior Varsity team was coached by Mr. Roy Pignatiello and Mr. Mike Barnauskas. The team finished with a disappointing 3-7 season. Even though their record wasn't as good as it was in the past, they showed a lot of perseverance and talent that the Varsity team can use in team future.

Sock It To Me

Varsity soccer struggles to fourth place

Despite another disappointing record, the Varsity soccer team displayed much improvement over last year. Many of the losses came through hard fought, one-goal margins. And the team did advance to the third round of the sectional tournament, under head coach John Gibbons.

Varsity was lead by captain and four year letterman Alen Dujmovic, the team's leading scorer, who was a key on both offense and defense. Seniors Roger Kunes and Jason Socha also contributed strong defensive efforts while Dave Kramer minded the nets. The midfield was dominated by junior Steve Barstow, who was the team's third leading scorer. Offensively, the Panthers were lead by Steve Burke's hustle and determination.

The squad was a hard-working group that never gave up. Their efforts were commendable. With the return of the experienced juniors, the team has a bright future.

The Junior Varsity, under coach Jeff Jordan, also endured another losing season. Senior Patty Lux, junior Ben Pfahl, sophomore Mario Covic, and freshman Joe Brkic gave outstanding efforts. Sharing time in the nets were junior Sean Popovic and freshman Justin McKee. Although the team possessed much talent, they failed to outscore their opponents.

The Freshmen soccer team, coached by Jim Presot, had a promising season. Everyone earned playing time and gained experience. Robbie Heramb sparked the offense while John Buchner and goalkeeper Zelko Cindric did well on defense. Many players will make a strong impact on both the Junior Varsity and Varsity level next year.

Varsity Volleyball plagued by injurie

The 1990 Varsity volleyball team was lead by co-captains Liz Mazzei and Joy Lewin and seniors, Janice Kozlowski and Sue Hamilton. There were many injuries to the girls this season which slowed them down a bit and contributed to a below average season.

Hitters Joy Lewin, Liz Mazzei and Corri Turkall saw most of the net action, while Kelly Hodder and Debbie Risko perfected their setting. Jennifer Hiser set and hit very well for the team and should be very strong next year.

Back row players included Janice Kozlowski, Sue Hamilton, Joy Lewin, Michelle Reed, Kelly Hodder and Meredith Mihalic. Julie Montagner came up from the J.V.'s half way through the season and had an excellent year. The team has the beginnings for a good future.

The J. V. volleyball team had a rough season with a record of 3-12. The team was lead by Jean Enneper, Amy Garbincus and Angie Collins as well as many others. "We were a strong team but we weren't very lucky when we needed to be" said Amy Garbincus. It was tough with such a different team as well as a new coach, Mrs. Mihalic. This was a transitional year for the J. V.'s and they are expected to start out strong and have a better season next year.

The 1990 Freshman volleyball team had a great season with a 12-6 record. Led by Kristen Mihalic with hits, Julie DiBartolomeo with the top serves and a starting setter, Julianne Hadyk, the team ended with a great season. In the tournament they were top seeded but came in second. Coach Buck helped the team improve in court action. Kim Mihalic said, "by the time we're seniors we'll have an awesome team if we stick together!". Next year's J. V. team should benefit greatly from this year's freshmen.

Girl's Tennis has an improved season

The Varsity Girls Tennis Team swung into action this year. Not only did the Lady Panthers double their winning games from last year, but they went far past them. They were, however, plagued with sickness and injury that left their record with faults.

A new student, Hally Watson, transferred from Shaker, was placed first singles with Emily Smayda second and June U third. Because of difficulties the three players with the help of Sue U changed places often. Andrea Colavecchio, Amanda Rowe, Dawn Medved, Jennifer Melnyk, and Lisa Moster juggled the doubles places. Helena Oroz and Lydia Choi joined the Varsity in doubles and gained wins in Junior Varsity singles. A special thanks went out to the co-captains June U and Hally Watson and Coach Swope. To a wonderful season and many more. Remember the Chomp!

Top singles players Lydia Choi and Helena Oroz alternated singles positions and played on the Varsity team in the second spot. Erin Smith and Eileen Hannan battled for the third singles place throughout the season. Lisa Iannetta, Sandy Carrera, Tory Doles and Maria Raguz swung into double pairs.

Golf team has another winning season

Mr. Raicevich was pleased with the 1990 golf season as he led the team to "another winning season." The team's record of nine and five gave them a standing of third in the G.C.C. Phil Sillia should be recognized as the most outstanding golfer. Phil shot some excellent games and was named as the G.C.C. All League Player. Freshman Tim Brokaw also played very well. Tim will help build a strong Euclid Golf team next year. Kevin Granito, Bill Jerin, Rob Lohn, Brian Bush and Jim Masterson all deserve recognition for a great season. Overall, the golf team was a fine coachable group.

Couldn't Keep Up

Boys' cross country has disappointing season

The 1990 Boys' Cross Country team had a slow start, but still managed to run at the Regional Meet. The season ended with a 2-1 record. The young team consisted of only four upperclassmen, including three seniors and one junior. The remainder of the team was sophomores and freshman. Although the team struggled to 0-8 in the Greater Cleveland Conference, they went on to finish fifth in the conference meet. The late season successes include second place at the North Coast Classic, first place at the Coaches Classic, and fourth place in district Qualifying to Districts. The team was lead by Captain Ken Wolenski, Most Valuable Mike Carney, Outstanding Sophomore Chris Atlas, and Most Improved Andy Ehrhardt.

Not Enough Depth

Girls' cross country suffered for lack of a number three runner

Girls' Cross Country: Debbie Podmore, Annette Hollis, Missy Rocco, Meredith FitzGerald, India Ford, Cindy Orlic, Jennifer Daly, Karen Radachy, Shannon Marek, Jody Walleette, Coach York, Kim Sabel.

The girls' cross-country team had an up and down season, but enjoyed some successes on the way. Newcoming sophomores Jennifer Daly and Jody Walleette added depth to the team. Junior Karen Radachy, freshman Debbie Podmore, and seniors Missy Rocco and Cindy Orlic were all on the varsity lineup. It was Meredith FitzGerald and India Ford, however who provided the main strength for the team finishing a consistent one-two during most of the meets. The girls rallied to finish third in the GCC. The best team effort was at the district meet where they managed to qualify for regionals. Only Meredith and India were able to qualify for the State meet where Meredith was able to get a tenth place finish.

After the season, Meredith and India competed in the Kinney Regional Championships in Racine, Wisconsin and finished 7th and 8th and advanced to the Kinney National Championships held in San Diego, Ca. on Dec 6-9, 1990. That was the first time in the history of the race that two girls from the same school competed. Meredith managed to finish 25th in that national race.

Showing Improvement

Wrestlers able to capture some wins

The wrestling team had something to smile about this year, as victories were finally produced. The current juniors and seniors struggled through the last two years taking their lumps and paying their dues. Many of them saw regular varsity action as freshmen and sophomores as they were thrown into the fire with significant talent but little experience. This year they knew what to expect and wrestled much better. What goes around comes around and it was time to give out some beatings instead of taking them.

From the beginning of the season the coaches and wrestlers knew that they could make some noise in the GCC if their confidence was just sparked by a few victories. When the team won a dual meet in the season opening quadrangular and wrestled tough in the other two matches they knew it was coming. Slowly but surely the team's confidence grew and the wins started coming. The team peaked at the end of the season just in time for the tournaments.

There were not enough wrestlers to really have a JV team. Although there were some JV matches there were many forfeits and the scores were usually not recorded.

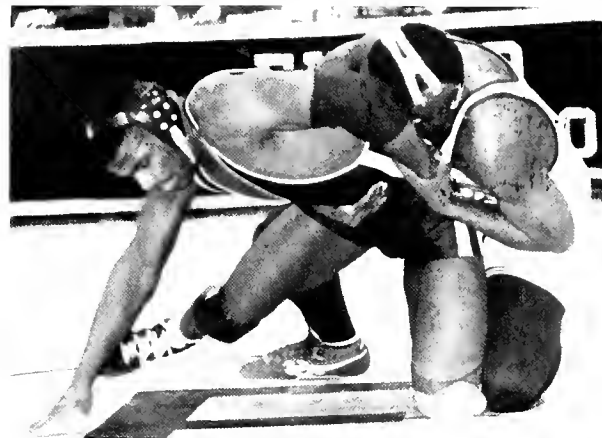

The freshmen had a strong season and looked promising for the upcoming years. Some of them obtained varsity experience and wrestled well during their moment in the spotlight.

Six In A Row

Boy's take GCC...again

The way it looks, the G.C.C. Championship Trophy just doesn't want to leave Euclid. The boy's basketball team, although losing a few games, brought the G.C.C. title home for the sixth straight year. This year's team was blessed with tremendous depth. After season ending injuries to Matt Garbinus and Mike Mc Dougall early in the season, the team stuck together to win the G.C.C. and enter the district tournaments seeded #2.

They were led by the leadership and great play of captains Justin Daugherty and Chuck Yurcich along with Gary Meeks, Jason Weybrecht and John Vuyancih. Coach Daugherty also received strong bench play from Brian Dunmire, Daymond Callahan and Ken Davis. Dranoel Wilkerson, Raeshuan Jernigan, Kevin Flynt, Bill Jerin and Dave Grice also saw some action to help the team.

This year Euclid had something it hasn't had for several years, the big, tall men. The front line of Justin Daugherty, Gary Meeks and John Vuyancih was said to be the best in the league. Because of them Euclid fans were treated to a host of opponent's shots being marked, "return to sender". They led to a strong inside game which enabled Euclid to capture many rebounds so they could get a second and even a third shot. The most exciting part, however, was Justin Daugherty making his three point shots "from outer space". Justin led all the players in the area with total number of points and with the highest average number of points per game and with the number of three point shots made. Gary Meeks was second in the area for total points and average per game. Both of them were chosen 'Players of the week' by both the Plain Dealer and the News Herald. All three of the big men up front were in the area's top scoring list.

Euclid was an explosive team that often won the tip-off and then proceeded to score several three pointers so that they were up by ten or more points with only several minutes gone off the clock. They ran a fast offense with lots of quick scoring and exciting plays.

With the experience gained by the many junior and sophomores on the team, along with the talent coming up from the JV, the G.C.C. trophy is probably saying, "I don't think I'll be leaving Euclid for awhile".

The JV team did not have as much talent as it had in past years and did not do as well as in the past. They failed to maintain a high level of intensity throughout the game. Often they were winning going into the fourth period and elected to slow down the game and sit on the lead rather than keep up the pressure. Because of that they suffered some close losses. The freshman team, however, had lots of talent and finished first with a 14-3 record.

Two of the most valuable forces on Euclid's team were Justin Daugherty shooting baskets from 'outer space' and Gary Meeks who marked many opponent's shots, 'return to sender'. Only An Average Season

Lack of depth hurts lady panthers

Terri Blasius gets ready to put the ball up.

The lady panthers played well, but had a tough season this year. Defensively, they played solid man-to-man defense and ran their presses well. Offensively, they ran their plays well, took advantage of their quickness, and shot baskets accurately.

All of the girls on the team (which included 3 seniors, 6 juniors and 3 sophomores) enjoyed being a part of a team as well as playing the game. Due to various illnesses throughout the season, however, there were many times when the team was short one or two players, yet even then, those girls were at the games to be part of the team.

Many team members got different enjoyment from the game itself. When asked what she enjoyed most about playing basketball, senior Captain Catinna Brewington said; "I enjoy the fans cheering, being energized, and feeling good. The thing I enjoy most, though, is being in control."

The seniors, Catinna Brewington, Coleen Bradach and Terri Blasius, will be missed in the years to come. The juniors, sophomores and freshmen have to look forward to playing together in the upcoming years and have to stay a team all year long.

J.V.'s take the G.C.C. Excellent Season

The Euclid girls JV basketball team ended up with the G.C.C. title for the second year in a row. Consisting of 3 freshmen, 10 sophomores and 2 juniors, this power-packed team of girls should be able to look forward to a good JV and Varsity season next year. Many of the girls on the team were good defensive players as well as offensive players.

One factor that was important in the success of the JV team was the fact that there was always a sense of 'family' and 'togetherness' among the teammates. On the court as well as off, the girls got along well and tried to help each other.

The girls deserved to feel proud of themselves since they were all-around great people and will lead to greater things in the future.

The graduation of Robert Smith did not prove to be a major setback as his spot was filled in part by freshman all-star Brandon Biggom. Also taking up the slack were junior Bob Yoe, sophomore Chris Atlas, and seniors Mike Carney and Darryl East. The seniors gave much needed leadership to the team which was coached by Mr. Ramlow and Mr. Tomasi.

Despite the loss of fourteen players from last year's team, the Panther hockey team rallied to retain the Blue Division East title with a division record of ten wins and three losses. Led by tri-captains Marc Fifolt, Joel Kernc and Leon Rozic, the team surpassed last year's outstanding record and headed into the state playoffs with a confidence backed by a superb defense.

Inspired by the brilliant tutelage of head coach Forest Dixon and assistant Anthony "Skip" Martincic, this young team threw off the facade of inexperience and took many an opponent by storm. Casting off the aura of disbelief through sheer dedication and raw talent, the team effort allowed the five seniors to conclude their exceptional careers on a winning note.

Even with the rigorous requisites imposed by hockey, the team was able to maintain a high grade point average making them winners on the ice as well as in the classroom.

Different Strokes

Boy and Girl swimmers

Although they didn't have the best season record, boy's swimming had a great season filled with fun and friendship. The season got off to a bad start because of the remodeling that was going on with the boy's and girl's pools. When preseason started they had no pool and they just barely got in the pool by the beginning of the season. When boy's pool was finally fixed, it had to be shared between the boys and girls teams which meant late practices twice a week, and less morning practice. All of this made for a team that was not as well conditioned as they could have been.

After things returned to normal the season really got moving and the team started to build together under co-captains Andy Logar, the top distance swimmer and Keny Gilbert, the top sprinter. The problem was that there were not enough people on the team to have the depth that it needed to be competitive. Even though the guys knew they had no chance at getting anywhere in the G.C.C. they swam their best. The high point of the season was Andy Logar's great finish to win the 500 at the G.C.C. Championships.

The students at Euclid High School came initially with the purpose of having an exciting four years. No student wholly realized that these four years would also be an intense period of academic study. They were able to take in information from both ends of the academic spectrum, for example computer science to poetry analysis. Without those things to round them out, they would never be able to fit in a world dominated by factors outside of the scope of high school. None of this, however, would have been able to have been accomplished without the help of the fine help provided by the Euclid staff. The students spend their four years under this guidance. All too often, students do not appreciate the instruction and guidance provided by the staff while they are in attendance. It is only after graduation that most students realize the full extent of their assistance.

The administration of the Euclid Schools for the 1990-91 school year did not change much from the 1989-90 school year. The School Board remained the same and the only change to the administrators was the addition of Robert Knuth as the Director of Secondary Education and the change of John Fell to Assistant to the Superintendent.

At Euclid High School the only change was the customary one of the senior unit principal moving down to the freshman grade level and all others moving up with their respective classes.

The students here at Euclid High owe much to the fine counselors who devote much of their time and effort into giving the best possible guidance and advice to all the students.

They are the ones the students go to when they need to decide what classes to take, or when they need help in deciding their future or simply just to get an opinion. It is difficult for students to make the decisions they must face as they graduate and move on in life. The counselors help put these choices into a better perspective so that any student may succeed to the best of his ability.

Staff endows excitement to students

To students and faculty alike, Euclid High School is a home away from home. The staff does a fine job of not only teaching students, but guiding them in personal matters. The dedication of the faculty towards students makes the high school the fine institution it is. Counselors, teachers, secretaries, cafeteria help and custodians all pull together to create a pleasurable atmosphere.

With the many career decisions faced by students today, more should become aware of, and utilize the wealth of resources made available to them through the Career Office. Among the resources this year was a new and improved version of the OCIS computer system. The OCIS (Ohio Career Information System) was designed so that the students could easily tap into a breadth of knowledge regarding four-year and two-year colleges as well as vocational programs, technical schools and financial aid information. The uses of such programs are many, as some staff members chose to incorporate the system into their own classroom curriculum. New goals have been set among the staff to start familiarizing students even as freshmen so that they could plan for their future and realize the numerous options available to them as they progress in their studies.

Working with some small groups of those students who were interested in learning the program was Mrs. Hodder, who devoted much of her time and effort to the new system, and if she was not available, Mr. Yocum or Mrs. Paul would be there willing to lend a helping hand whenever possible.

The new OCIS system should prove to be valuable asset to the students in the years to come.

Speaker tells of strength, heroism and faith

On Tuesday, November 27, 1990, Euclid High School was privileged to host a very special guest speaker, Dave Roever. Mr. Roever was a Vietnam veteran with an incredibly moving and inspirational life story. During the war, he was burned beyond recognition when a phosphorus grenade he was holding in his hand exploded near his face. The resulting burning caused him to lose more than sixty pounds of flesh and exposed his internal organs. He lost most of the right side of his face including his right ear and eye. When the medics were evacuating him the stretcher burned causing him to fall to the ground. When they opened him up in the hospital some of the phosphorus inside caught fire again. He had to have many operations to get him back to be a functioning person.

Although he had to endure years of suffering, he did not allow his own pain to alter his positive outlook on life. Today, he speaks to high school students all across the country in an effort to convey an important message - to believe in yourself, and to do what is right.

His speech, although very moving and poignant, was at times humorous. His positive approach to his own personal hardships and to those problems which we all must face each day was very motivating.

His talk was very well received by everyone. His was truly an amazing story of strength, heroism and faith.

On Wednesday, October 17, 1990 Mike Smith, an nationally known motivational speaker, spoke to Euclid students and about one hundred others from twelve area schools who also attended. Mr. Smith, through his methods of motivational speaking reaches out to his audiences and shows them how to believe in themselves. He came right down to the students and was able to hold the attention of hungry and restless teenagers for a full forty-five minutes through his use of visual stimulations and dynamic speaking. Even the most timid and hesitant became willing participants in his special group-action activities. Mr. Smith has made presentations to more than 150,000 people in such diverse groups as state, regional, and national associations of students, teachers, and administrators.

Crisis In The Gulf

World outlook changes because of Iraq

The turn of the decade brought with it a time of great upheaval regarding world affairs. Not only did the Second World War finally conclude with the reunification of Germany, but also the uncertainty of the crisis in the Persian Gulf aroused feelings of tension and tremendous fear of the nations throughout the world, especially here in the United States. At a time when most families were getting ready to celebrate the holiday season, they were devastated to find that many of their friends and loved ones were given their orders to serve our country in the Middle East. This message really hit close to home as Coast Guard Reservists based right here in Northeast Ohio received the call to active duty. To most, this harsh reality was beyond the scope of their expectations when they joined the services, yet these valiant men and women rose to the occasion, leaving behind the security of their homes to fight for the security of others thousands of miles away.

The crisis began in mid-August of 1990 with the invasion of the Iraqi army led by Saddam Hussein into the tiny country of Kuwait on its Southern border. Hussein claimed this land had long belonged to Iraq and he was only claiming what was his country's in the first place. Viewing this as an unexcusable act of aggression, President Bush decided to intervene by sending U.S. troops into Saudi Arabia, so as to pose a threat to the Iraqis and to protect the rights of the people in Kuwait, not to mention Hussein's American "guests"/hostages held within the country. Operation Desert Shield, as it became known, came to involve thousands of U.S. soldiers who had been stationed at military bases all over the country.

The effects of this crisis have been felt not only in the United States, but also in most other nations as well. The economies of the countries in the Middle East survive on the production of oil from the desert and as the crisis unfolded, petroleum prices rose which caused a price increase in all petrochemical products, most notably gasoline. There was also an effect maintained through the sentiment of the American public towards the military build-up. When polled in August, Americans supported President Bush's decision of sending troops. Yet as the crisis reached a stalemate-like situation, the public grew uneasy with the increased number of soldiers sent, and began to question the reasoning behind the U.S. involvement in what seemed like a truly foreign problem. Since the days of defining itself as a superpower in the world, the U.S. has classified itself as being the "policeman" of the world, thereby justifying its actions to the people. Yet the occupying of troops has been cause for the American people to draw parallels to the war the U.S. faced in Vietnam, where there accumulated a tremendous lack of support from the public.

In the 1970's, the United States faced an energy crisis as OPEC reduced the flow of oil from the Middle East. Prior to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the United States had become very complacent regarding its energy sources. As a result of the invasion, the U.S. has discovered that its energy sources could be easily disrupted. Because of this, Americans will be forced to pay more for its energy. This promotes an increased need for conservation of our present energy supplies, while also fostering the development of known energy sources as well as the enhancement of energy technology. The world that today's high school students will inherit is far different from the one which their predecessors entered, making it all the more important for the students to understand what will be expected from them in the future.

-Carla Matiaska

Mrs. McLaughlin and Mr. Serra hope that their students can get an appreciation for the events that have occurred in the gulf.

Working Their Way Up

Underclassmen work through the years to attain senior status

Nick Perry gets some excitement from books that he can get from the library.

Life as a freshmen in Euclid High School was new and exciting. The start of each day brought new experiences and knowledge. By the sophomore year, being part of the crowd did not seem as important as becoming an individual. Finally, accustomed to the schedule and homework, getting involved in school and social activities became easier and more rewarding. Then came junior year, the final step in preparation of becoming a senior. Half-way through the high school experience, a junior's sights were finally focused on graduation. All three years of being an underclassmen were important in the molding of a superior senior class.

Everything looks so big when you're a freshman

The first thing freshmen thought as they entered Euclid High was how large and maze-like it seemed. The halls seemed to go on forever, there were so many rooms, so many stairs, and so many people. After a few days, however, they realized how simple finding their way around was and the rest of the year passed easily for most of them. Freshman year brought many new experiences. New friendships were made and old ones were strengthened. The most difficult part of the freshman year seemed to be the demanding schedule, and increased homework. With the huge list of activities the school had to offer, the year could become fun and exciting.

SOPHOMORES

Long gone were the days of walking aimlessly through the halls trying to find your classroom. Also gone were the problems associated with trying to get your supplies organized in your locker so you could get to the correct class with the needed materials. Most had grown past the immaturity of their freshman year and entered into their sophomore year with high expectations for a successful high school career. This was the year to find your identity. Some sophomores were able to get their drivers license but most still had to rely on others to get them around. It got some closer, however, to breaking free from the bonds of immobility.

The sophomore year was one of great change in a person's high school career. Students were trying to find their identities. They were still friendly with most of their peers since they had not yet developed the maturity of juniors. Peer pressure to conform, however, weighed heavily on them.

1001 Black Inventions

Assembly exposes students to some of the contributions of black Americans

On October 30, during the second period, Euclid students were able to attend an assembly put on by a national theatrical company entitled "1001 Black Inventions". It consisted of four men and a woman who tried to show Euclid students some of the accomplishments that members of the black community have made to American history. They performed several skits showing the inventor's lives and how they changed the lives of everyone around them and the hardships they had to endure.

Some of the inventions that were portrayed in the assembly were the fire extinguisher, the machine for attaching soles to shoes and the many products that George Washington Carver was able to make from the simple peanut.

Standardized Tests

Students have to be concerned with these

Tests are an integral part of the life of any student. This school year proposed some new requirements for the future graduating classes, regarding not only graduation stipulations, but also with respect to the S.A.T., the standardized test many of those planning on attending college will take. Beginning with the Class of 1994, students will be required to take proficiency tests to determine the type of diploma a student will receive. Also beginning with the Class of 1994, the College Board has decided to upgrade its version of the S.A.T. to include an essay to provide a more accurate way of evaluating the student's ability in the written language, and gives the student a more viable means to express himself. The new S.A.T. will also include less multiple choice questions in order to better test the understanding of the student. For some students, college is the next step in furthering their education, and these tests are but one of the many obstacles they will encounter. All of these standardized tests, among which include the S.A.T., the A.C.T. and the P.S.A.T., are indeed very challenging to the students, and they provide some beneficial insights into what lies ahead in the future.

-Carla Matiaska

These students may have to be looking about standardized tests in the future.

Lillian Mazzie and Julie DiBartolomeo know that they have to get lots of nourishment if they are going to do well on their standardized tests.

Model train show comes to EHS

Spectators crowded the E-Room to get a chance to see the memorabilia that was on display.

For the past several years the attendance at Euclid's informal dances has been decreasing. Because of this Student Council has had to try to find other means of raising money for the Senior Prom. This year a Model Train Show was held on November 11 and again on February 3 in the E-Room. These shows were put on by professional promoters who sponsor them throughout the area. They consist of many working layouts and many vendors who were willing to sell or trade model railroad equipment. It attracted Euclid students and faculty, as well as people throughout the community, thanks to the advertisement in the local papers. Key Club also sponsored a Pancake and Sausage Breakfast during the train show so people could eat and then go to the show. Because the Train show was a success, it will probably return to Euclid in future years.

Much Needed Repairs

Many renovation projects started with passage of bond levy

This year saw the arrival of many changes in and about Euclid High School! The most evident being the renovation of the stadium, new ventilation systems in the boy's and girl's pools, the replacement of the girl's pool roof, and the repaving of areas surrounding the school. The improvements also included much needed repairs to the heating system and the school building in general. While many of the planned repairs have already been completed, many more still lay on the horizon; such as replacement of the entire roof, removal of the greenhouse to cure chronic leaking in the planetarium and little theater, and measures to check the E-room's sinking.

These and other changes were made possible by the passage of a bond levy in May of 1990. Hopefully, these and other recent improvements will initiate a future trend of superior maintenance throughout the Euclid Schools.

-Ed Galosi

Ed Galosi, Jeff Kaleal and Robert Galosi take a break from the girl's pool while the roof was being repaired.

With the new dehumidifier installed in the boy's and girl's pools there should be less damage to the paint and walls.

Michael Karabinus and Debra Long enjoy the Homecoming dance which was held in the E-room after its ceiling had been sealed because of asbestos.

Getting To Know You

Parent-Teacher conferences give a chance for parents to see their child's progress

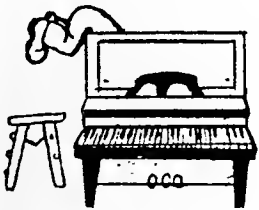

On October 10 and 11, and again on February 1 and 2 Parent-Teacher conferences were held. These gave parents an opportunity to talk individually with their child's teachers and to get an idea of how their child was progressing in their classes. The first conference was held midway through the first grading period so the parents could be made aware of any impending problems that their child may be having. A problem with having the conference so early in the school year was that the students had not yet settled down into the routine of school yet and they were not well known to their teachers. The second conference was held after the second quarter was over so the students were half-way through the school year. By this time the students were well established in their classes but their final grade could still be altered by their performance during the final grading periods. Most teachers and parents felt that the conferences were an ideal way to improve communication between the school and home environments.

Mr. Gooding discusses the progress of one of his students with their parents.

Mr. Soltesz takes time to talk with some students during one of the less busy times during the conferences.

Renee Walton thinking about her junior year.

Junior year was full of decisions that had to be made, not only about the senior schedule but college decisions as well. Taking the PSAT to prepare for the SAT was only one task that had to be accomplished. Other hard decisions toward a fast moving future were pressing on a junior's shoulders but this wasn't all that was important about junior year. The fact that most juniors had their drivers license meant that they gained some independence and freedom from their parents. Juniors were also able to form more lasting relationships with members of the opposite sex.

Wall Come Tumbling Down

Germany reunited after five decades

Jay Dee Cleaners

878 East 222nd St.
Euclid, Ohio 44123
731-7060

German Foreign Exchange Student, Solvy Mayr and her laboratory partner, Juliet Blackford working hard in chemistry lab.

On October 3, 1990 an historical event occurred. This was the reunification of East and West Germany after being separated for almost fifty years. The last couple of years have seen many changes in Europe and the Soviet Union. The Berlin Wall was officially breached on September 11, 1989 which was the first step that led to German reunification.

This year Euclid High School had two foreign exchange students from Germany. They were Solvy Mayr and Veronika Schnell. Solvy explained some of the problems that would go with the German reunification.

Even though the two countries were once part of the same they changed drastically during the years after the division. West Germany developed into one of the strongest economies in the world with little unemployment while East Germany's economy, being communistic, deteriorated into a very weak one that was plagued with problems such as unemployment and food shortages. The West German industrial complex had developed to compete in the world while the East German industry was left to languish pollution and decay. West Germany was a clean, healthy place while East Germany was a dirty, polluted place ravaged by the Russian soldiers that were occupying it.

German reunification was not an easy task. The German people would be faced with higher taxes to pay for the changes that had to be made in the East. There were shortages of many essential goods. The Germans had a tough way to get back to where they would have a truly reunited country. But at least it was a beginning.

Knowledge is important in understanding the world around you.

Requirements Changing

Freshmen faced with more stringent graduation requirements

Well juniors, the tide has turned and the luck has come your way. While you just had to worry about graduating, the freshmen must worry not only about graduating, what kind of diploma they'll get and the fact that they'll need additional credits in order to graduate.

Beginning with the class of 1994 there will be more than one kind of diploma that will be awarded. One of these will be the 'Award of Merit'.

To qualify for the 'Award of Merit' (part of the Diploma of Commendation) the following minimum requirements must be filled: 4 units of English, 3 units of math (including 1 algebra and 1 geometry), 3 units of science (including 2 units from biology, chemistry or physics), 3 units of Social Studies (including 2 units of history and one half unit of civics or government) and 3 units of Foreign Language. They also need 2 units from one of the following or from the above courses: business, computer science, visual or performing arts.

If students are involved in a Vocational Curriculum they must complete a vocational preparation program along with the college preparatory requirements for: English, math, science, social studies and two additional units from business, computer science, Foreign Language or a visual or performing art.

Maintaining above average attendance for grades nine through twelve and earning the equivalent of an overall g.p.a. of 3.25 on a five point scale are also primary criteria for all the students. Participation in community and school activities and demonstrating outstanding citizenship traits must also be established.

Only the top students will be able to qualify for the 'Award of Merit' diploma. Most will get the more traditional diploma. The high school diploma is becoming a more complex item in the future.

Just Twirling Around

Majorettes helped pay for San Diego trip by twirling for 24 hours

On October 19-20, 1990 the Euclid High Majorettes twirled 24 hours straight. They took turns twirling for 15 minute intervals. They did this to help raise money to go to San Diego, California during the Winter break. They were chosen to go there during the summer when they were at majorette camp. They were the only squad at the camp to have all their majorettes chosen to participate. It was one thing to be chosen and another thing to get there. That took money, lots of it. In doing the twirl-a-thon they raised over $2000 which helped them pay for a substantial part of the trip.

They had a wonderful time on their trip and met many wonderful people. They really appreciated all the people who helped them with monetary donations and all the other kinds of help.

-Stacey Brown

It was during the Bedford football that the majorettes began their twirl-a-thon. Here, Lisa Riedel, Michelle Plevlich, Christine Zivnoska, and Windi Wojdak announce the event to the fans at the game.

A 'Spark' Dies Out

Former Superintendent of Schools passes away

The former superintendent of Euclid Schools, Spartoco 'Sparky' DiBiasio passed away on September 12, 1990 at his North Carolina home at the age of 72. Memorial services were held on October 20 at the East Shore United Methodist Church in Euclid.

As superintendent from 1968-1975, it was said the DiBiasio was "willing to listen to all points of view" and "took time to learn about the issues" at hand. He was commended by many as being a warm, personal individual who was active in religious, social and civic organizations.

DeBiasio served 35 years as a football coach, teacher, principal and superintendent before retiring in 1975. The Euclid High School Stadium carries the name of this fine gentleman. (Information for this story was found in the October 11, 1990 issue of the News Herald.)

Get The Point?

Student Council helps Red cross by sponsoring annual blood drive

Kimberly Taylor discovering that it doesn't hurt to give blood.

Michelle Wagner giving her best.

Jozelia Grace and Latrice Bell are experiencing one of the most enjoyable parts of giving blood which is munching out on the cookies and juice.

Euclid's Student Council sponsored its annual Blood Drive on Wednesday, December 5. This year the drive collected seventy pints of blood, mostly, from the students. In order for a student to give blood, they must be eighteen years old or seventeen years old with parental consent. Blood donation was very beneficial to the students, since they were able to get out of one of their class periods. They learned many of the facts about giving blood, such as there is little pain involved and one cannot get diseases from giving blood. It was a nice habit to get into which prepared them for the future.

A 'Whittle' Bit Of TV

Channel One enabled Euclid students to get an eye on the world

Whittle Communications came to Euclid High School in the fall of 1990. It put the high school on the cutting edge of technology as far as classroom communications was concerned. In the deal with Whittle, 79 TV's were installed during the summer into most of the homerooms and cable TV lines were put into most of the remaining rooms. A satellite dish was also installed on the roof. Each morning a news program was broadcast down from a satellite and recorded onto videotape. This was the Channel One program which was sent to each homeroom every day. The program consisted of 10 minutes of a current news show and two minutes of commercials. Homeroom began after the program was concluded.

Channel One was not the only use for the equipment, however. The TV's were wired to pick up many of the cable channels so they could be used to watch TV anytime during the day. Also, special programs could be prepared by the students and presented during homeroom. An example of this was the presentation of Homecoming candidates to the students during homeroom, broadcasts of assemblies to the classes that couldn't fit in the auditorium and video morning announcements. Also, tapes could be played from the central office to any room that requested it. The system was under the coordination of the AV director Mr. Allen Black.

The Whittle equipment was donated to the school system and did not have to be purchased. In exchange the Channel One broadcasts contained two minutes of commercials. There was much concern about the students being exposed to the two minutes of commercials each day but the commercials are well done, in good taste and are not offensive. Considering the number of commercials that each student was exposed to every day of their lives the two minutes of Channel One commercials were rather insignificant. Most of the people exposed to the Channel One system felt that it was well worth it and that it had tremendous potential.

Tops In The School

Seniors make the school happen

Student Council president, Lee Jackson, was a strong force in running the show.

Student Council vice president in charge of finances, Shelley Tobias announcing candidates during the Homecoming assembly.

In retrospect, seniors look upon their last year in high school as their most enjoyable. It was the year when most of them started thinking about what kind of career they wanted to go into and whether or not college was in their future. Some seniors found this year one in which they could take it easier if they were well on the path to fulfilling graduation requirements. Yet others who elected to take a more rigorous schedule found this year to be extremely challenging, especially those preparing for the Advanced Placement exams. The senior year, filled with memories of past acquaintances coupled with the anticipation of future friendships, heightened the excitement for the seniors. This was a time for looking back upon all of the enjoyable times in school, laughing at the good and learning from the bad. This was the seniors' turn to be the most respected student in the school. Hopefully, the seniors learned that school was not just a place for hard work and books, but was about meeting new people and having new experiences from which they could draw upon throughout their lives.

Bathing Beauty

Euclid senior participates in Miss Teen All American Pageant

During the summer after her junior year, senior, Jeanette Miller was able to participate in the Miss Teen All American Pageant which was held at the Holiday Inn in Worthington which is near Columbus, Ohio. Concerning her experience with the contest Jeanette said "Being in the Miss Teen All American Pageant was the most exciting and unforgettable experience of my life. Being selected to be one the the contestants was a great honor. There were so many exciting things to look forward to such as getting sponsors, a gown, bathing suit, and making new friends".

In order to participate in the pageant, Jeanette had to get people and companies to sponsor her like executive companies, cleaners, car washes, bridal shops and neighborhood churches and organizations. She had to be able to speak well and look presentable when she solicited support.

After that she needed a gown. Something that was very long, sleek and elegant. It had to fit nice and be flattering. She also needed a bathing suit, something that was conservative but one that was stylish and fit well.

In order to be successful a contestant had to be able to speak well with good pronunciation. She had to be able to relate well with the other contestants and be able to stand up to the rigors that the contestants were subjected to.

Jeanette Miller poised with a smile during the Miss Teen All American Pageant.

Seniors pick their favorite radio station

WZAK, 93.1 FM, was chosen the favorite radio station by the seniors who voted. Close behind was Power 108 (107.9 FM WPHR). Also receiving a sizable amount of votes were the classic rock station 98.5

WNCX and Jammin' 92 F (WJMO). Other stations voted for ranged anywhere from classical music to college stations.

Dude...

Seniors pick their favorite slang words

Despite the English teacher's efforts, students of Euclid High used many different slang words. Seniors were asked to pick their favorite lingo. 'Dude' was picked most often, 'ain't', 'what's up', and 'word' were also frequently chosen. Other favorite slang words mentioned by seniors were 'yo', 'dud', 'hey', 'man', 'sweet' and 'bummer'.

-Rebecca Karnak

Phil Walczak and Marc Fifelt admire Brian Germano's OHI'YO' State sweatshirt. Rebecca Karnak and Suzi Brkic in the computer science lab and Betsy Cayne in the Student Council office are thinking up new slang words to impress their peers.

Piling It On

Some teachers give lots of homework

At the beginning of the year a poll was taken among the seniors as to which teacher gave the most homework. The clear winner in the responses was Mr. Hartmann. A distant second was Mrs. Schmeling. Other teachers that were considered to give a lot of homework were Dr. Powaski and Mrs. Torrelli.

Working on their computer assignments are students, Jessie Kovac and Sharon Barrett, Roger Kunes, Jamie Zahler and Phil Walczak.

When seniors were polled they were also asked to name their favorite teacher. Mr. Hartmann and Mr. Serra received the most number of votes from the senior class. Other favorites included Mr. Lowe, Miss White, Mrs. McLaughlin, and Mr. Raicevich.

Class time is the most important part of the school day since it allows for student-teacher interaction which is what accomplishes the learning process. A positive attitude in the classroom is necessary to have a good learning experience.

Favorite Flicks

Students like to go to the movies

Everyone liked to go to the movies. They gave students a chance to relax and to unwind from the tensions and problems of the real world and see people in fanciful situations. Of all the movies that the seniors attended they picked "Ghost", starring Patrick Suayze and Demi Moore as their favorite. Finishing second was "Pretty Woman", starring Richard Gere and Julia Roberts. Other films that finished with many votes were "Animal House", "Dead Poets Society", "Beaches", "Say Anything", "Lethal Weapon 2", and "Flatliners".

Watching television has become an American tradition. The average person watches more than four hours of television every day. Television can be a very important way for people to learn about the things going on around them. It can also be a way to be entertained. High school students usually look upon television as a means of entertainment since a poll of Euclid seniors showed that their favorite shows were mostly sitcoms.

The show that most people picked as their favorite was "The Cosby Show" starring Bill Cosby. Other shows that were also popular were "The Simpsons", "In Living Color", "A Different World", "Cheers" and "Twin Peaks".

Enjoyable Reading

Seniors reveal their favorite books

Most classes at Euclid High School do require some reading at one time or another and the seniors who were polled offered their choices as to some of the more enjoyable books that were read throughout their high school years. The Catcher in the Rye topped the list, while others named included To Kill a Mockingbird, Wuthering Heights, The Great Gatsby and A Tale of Two Cities. Although these books were required reading for the most part, the seniors were able to find an escape the world of fiction and possibly even identified themselves with the various characters that were presented. With all of the demands placed on the seniors, such as class requirements, college admissions, scholarship applications as well as peer pressure, it is clear that books offered a welcome respite to the seniors.

You Know, I Really Admire...

Seniors reveal who they respect most

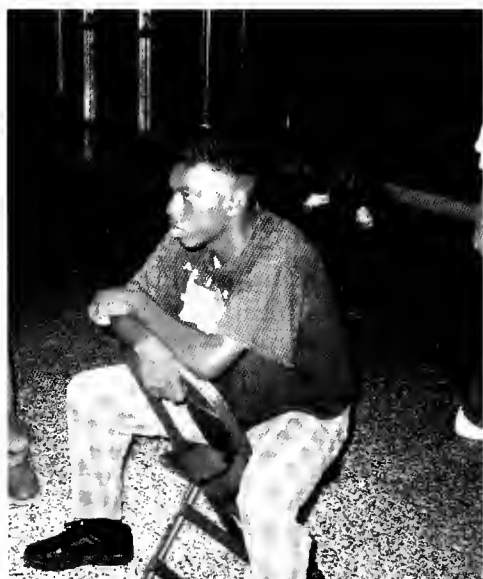

Admire. 1. To regard with wonder, pleasure, and approbation. 2. To have respect or esteem for. 3. To wonder or marvel at. Young people need someone to admire. It gives them a role model, someone that they want to imitate, someone that they want to look up to. People are admired for all kinds of reasons: athletic ability, good looks, acting ability, intelligence, personality or many other reasons. For whatever reason it gives living a purpose since you have someone you want to become.

The seniors at Euclid were polled as to the person they most admired. Many frequent responses were for actors and performers like Matt Dillon, Jon Bon Jovi and Humpty. The most frequent responses were for family members like their mothers and fathers and grandparents showing the strength there is in the family.

-Kim Taylor

Jeff Simenc said that he admired his computer science teacher, Mr. Adam Pawlowski.

Darryl East said that he admires God.

Vidal Curry admires Correta Scott King.

How Embarrassing...

Seniors share some embarrassing moments

No one could ever get through high school without being embarrassed at least once. The senior class was asked to write their most embarrassing moments. Here are some of the most embarrassing (and unusual) events in random order:

Scott Gould was embarrassed when Tom Zovko blew up his mailbox with an M-80 that Scott gave Tom.

Rosie Valentic was reading aloud in biology and instead of saying 'organism' said 'orgasm'.

Stephanie Slogar's friends gave her a raining bra for her sixteenth birthday at lunch and a bunch of people saw it.

Chris Ciulla was embarrassed when he was annoying a girl so much that she gave him a bloody nose.

Ketsy Cayne dislocated her elbow on the ski trip to New York as a freshman and had to go to the hospital in New York.

India Ford tripped and fell in a cross-country race.

Scott Humphries walked into a senior prom room by mistake on his first day at Euclid High School.

Ann Kelly had to give a speech in freshman English class and was shaking so badly she dropped her note cards and had to go back to her seat.

Lee Jackson hit a school bus with her sister's minivan in eleventh grade.

Darryl East was embarrassed when the basketball team was playing East High and people in the stands were talking about his haircut so loud that everyone could hear them.

Missy Rocco's most embarrassing moment came when Jay Turpin pulled the chair out from under her when she went to sit down in the library during study hall.

Carla Matiaska thought a roach clip was for killing roaches in physics class.

Maureen DeJonge was sitting in eighth period English class with 10 minutes left and an announcement came over one PA saying "Maureen DeJonge please call home."

Sharon Barrett ripped her skirt walking up the stairs in tenth grade.

Ferri Blasius and Melissa Gammon both fell down steps in a skirt.

Chenett Johnson fell in her date's lap at Homecoming because her heels were too tall for her.

Colleen Gallagher crashed her car twice in one week.

Patti Lux, Carol Morgan-Brown, Aaron Haselbusch, Valerie Jones and Jeanette Miller were embarrassed when they fell up stairs.

Sue Hamilton, Kathy Kubinski and Kim Mikich were all victims of "depants"ing. Dianne Baird remembers when a 'male friend' saw a picture of her in her underwear.

Joseph Cesa was embarrassed when he was caught kissing his girlfriend at band camp by Mr. Alspaugh who snuck up behind him and poured his Dr. Pepper on his head.

Frank Dengel was embarrassed when he dropped his tray in the cafeteria.

Lisa Eaton was embarrassed when she sat in American history class thinking it was American government and didn't realize it until the books were passed out.

Rick Flaismann remembers when he got knocked over by the blocking sled in football practice.

Maureen Hannan was embarrassed when she was sitting at her lunch table eating a Hostess cupcake and sneezed thereby spitting it out on the table.

Latrese Higgins recalls being embarrassed when she was a football aid and was flipped over backwards into the mud as both teams tackled her.

Donna Hoag was embarrassed when she tripped over a baby gate at a friend's party and took Debbie Morgan with her, scraping her toe while everyone laughed.

Robin Hunt was embarrassed as she and a friend talked for a long time to a deaf guy on the street while going to a Varsity Chorus rehearsal.

Kevin Kinsella was abashed when he sat on pink paint in the art room and walked around for the entire day, only to repeat his action the following day.

Michelle Kitis was embarrassed when she threw up on the library floor as a freshman.

Dave Kramer remembers when he did a handstand on a desk as a freshman and over-rotated.

Donna Leonardi was embarrassed when everyone found out that she and her friend Tammy were living in a brown Monte Carlo on the West side.

Patty Masterson admits to taking a flying leap down the stairs as a sophomore and landing flat on her back.

Scott Meyers was slightly embarrassed when his girlfriend told everyone what color underwear he had on that day.

Gerald Quinn recalls tripping Chris Shank (accidentally) who broke his ribs, jaw and knocked out 3 teeth.

Jamie Stohler was embarrassed when he got stuck in the elevator in a full body cast. Tom Shannon got all red when a "little bird" did its "business on him" while walking into school.

Michelle Randolph was embarrassed as she tripped over a music stand during Big Show and fell in front of the guy she liked and he laughed at her.

Sonia Cencic gave a big surprise to some guys in the Swim office as she walked in to use the phone wearing only her sweater and underwear.

Paulnetta Wilcox was most embarrassed when Gerald Boiner pulled down her pants in the E-Room during her junior year.

Marc Fifolt is hardly embarrassed to show what he thinks of his lunch.

Money Making Fun

Senior Elf Day raises money for Prom while helping relieve the stresses of the day before vacation

Senior Elf Day was a fund-raiser for prom, sponsored by Student Council. The week before winter break seniors sold tickets at fifty cents each to students and teachers who wanted to be santas. A drawing was held for each senior who sold at least ten dollars worth of tickets to determine who the lucky santa was.

On Elf Day, December 21, 1990, seniors dressed up like elves and served as slaves to their santas. Elves came decked out in leotards, jingle bells and santa hats. Elf Day was a successful fund raiser as well as an opportunity for students to show their holiday spirit.

Remember When...EHS

During their four years of high school, the seniors collected many fond memories of their time here which they will carry with them throughout their lives. Here are some of the many which the seniors were only too happy to recall:

Jessica Kovac remembers when Brandy Nickell hit her head on the diving board at a swim meet as a freshman.

Roger Kunes recalls when his freshman baseball team went 24-0, and then went 4-2 as the J.V. team.

Brandy Nickell remembers when the guys in school weighed more than she did.

Michelle Randolph has fond memories of Robert Smith winning football games for Euclid.

Missy Rocco recalls when Carla Matiaska thought a roach clip was actually used to kill roaches in A.P. Physics class.

Christian Sargent remembers running the 50-yard dash in the hall for gym class and a freshman ran so fast, he couldn't stop and he hit the wall and fell into a classroom.

Chenise Slaughter remembers when the Class of '87 was fighting in the cafeteria. Tom Shannon remembers when he borrowed a pen in woodworking class and gave his wallet to the teacher for collateral, promising to give him his wallet he if lost the pen. As he went to talk to some friends, he slipped and the pen flew out the window. He tried to climb out the window to retrieve it, but heard the teacher coming and slipped, knocking some wooden projects outside with the pen, kicking someone in the head and breaking the window, causing the glass to go into the heater. His teacher was so mad he started spitting, but Tom did get his wallet back.

Stephanie Slogar recalls having more time in between classes.

Bruce Torzewski remembers when everything wasn't cheap and bio-degradable.

Rosie Valentic recalls when her friend Marci claimed her locker wouldn't open, but it would have if she would have taken the lock out of the whole.

Jayne Vurusic remembers when she tripped up the stairs as a freshman and fell right in front of Bill Wagner.

Rebecca Weaver recalls when Mr. Sheck ripped off his shirt at an assembly.

Derrick Willis recalls when lunch was $1.20.

Janene Zakrajsek remembers when Charlie Yurcich and Matt Garbincus had a fruit slurping contest at lunch and Charlie slurped so hard the fruit jello came out of his nose.

Frank Dengel recalls when Mr. Serra would make a song out of everything.

Marla Cook remembers when Mrs. Krup assigned her to three different homerooms at once.

Sonia Cencic remembers when Mr. Gubitosi and Mr. Von Benken had the greatest Halloween costumes.

Aaron Haselbusch remembers when Euclid actually had a good Halloween dance in 1987.

Joseph Cesa recalls when there was a fire in the cafeteria during fourth period lunch.

Lisa Eaton has memories of Mr. Hartmann always reminding his class when those all important papers were due.

Sue Hamilton remembers when Mr. Smith had his fly down and everyone was embarrassed to tell him.

Meredith FitzGerald remembers when she joined the Fruit-Of-The-Loom bunch for Halloween.

Patti Burke remembering her friendship with Michael Clay.

David Kramer and Tony Curry remembering their good times together on their bicycles.

Remember When...Central

The seniors were asked to recall some of their more memorable moments concerning their experiences at Euclid Central. These are some of the responses:

Megan Straub, Liz Mazzei, and Terri Blasius would throw Brandy Nickell down the hall and then run and jump on her.

Joe Cesa remembers when Mr. Fritch brought his rabbit, Solid, to school and let it crap on the floor.

Christine Cotter, Liz Mazzei, Kelly Daugherty, and Terri Blasius would purposely trip in the halls and throw their books everywhere.

Lisa Eaton remembers "when we had air conditioning to keep us cool!"

Jozelia Grace remembers when the girls' track team only won two meets.

Maureen Hannan remembers when she was taking French from Miss Foley and she would show her how to say "bon" with a nasal sound.

Michael Holly remembers when he ran for president.

Aaron Haselbusch and Denise Johnson remember when Central used to be the Lions.

Charity Jones remembers when all the boys used to put mirrors on their shoes and look up all the girls' skirts.

Cathy Kubinski remembers when dances actually used to be fun!

Michael O'Neill remembers the earthquake he didn't even feel.

Eric Osborne remembers the dumb chimes that went off after every period.

Engelbert Puhalj remembers when he had paper hanging out his pants.

Jonasis Smith remembers when there were two junior high schools and they used to play each other at Euclid Stadium.

Tanis Taylor remembers when lunch was $1.00.

Kim Taylor remembers going to McDonald's after a dance, getting kicked out, and having to stand in the snow for half an hour.

Leonard Craig remembers when Central was an okay school.

Brandy Nickell remembers when the cheerleaders wore their uniforms to school.

Missy Rocco remembers when Kim Mikich and Steve Burke were set up on the track bus by the coaches in eighth grade.

Top: Justin Daugherty and Roger Kunes think about the good old times in Mr. Reno's physics class. Bottom: The students that went to Homecoming will surely remember it for the rest of their lives.

Top: Kim Mikich and Missy Rocco have been friends throughout high school and will probably remain so for years to come. Bottom: Hope Schmidt, Michelle Springer and Donna Hoag enjoying themselves while waiting for students to visit them during freshman orientation.

Remember When...Forest Park

The seniors were asked to recall some of their memories of life at Forest Park. Here's what they had to say:

Wayne Vurusic remembers when she was standing on the toilet during gym class without any shoes, looking in the mirror, when her foot slid into the toilet.

Tom Shannon remembers when he was running to his locker after school, and he tripped and slid on his stomach halfway down the hall.

Roger Kunes remembers when Forest Park whooped Central and won the Richmond Heights wrestling tournament.

Ken Wolenski remembers the Toronto trip when he, Heath Clemence, and Mike Cvelbar got lost in the Toronto Zoo and Mr. Zovack had to come looking for them. Terra Proctor remembers when Mr. Abrahamson swore at the choir group but no one took him seriously.

Kevin Kinsella remembers the last day of school, when they checked everyone's bags for eggs, and they hid them at Heath Clemence's house.

Chris Ciulla remembers when he was wrestling with Scott Gould and Brian Guilfoyle in their hotel room during the eighth grade trip to Toronto and they broke the bed and the picture glass.

Betsy Cayne remembers when Kim Miller married the overhead in Mr. Smolinski's history class.

Janet Hula remembers when Forest Park actually beat Central in sports.

Scott Gould remembers when Stacie Yuh has got handcuffed to his mother's Cadillac.

Rebecca Weaver remembers when Spanky ate the leftover ice cream bars that people threw away during fifth period lunch.

Jeff Kropf seems to be trying to remember something exciting.

Colleen Gallagher is really excited to be getting to class.

Kim Miller is feeling good as she goes

Kramer, Steve Burke, Patti Lux, Becki Spens and Suzi Brkic are enjoying their AFS meeting.

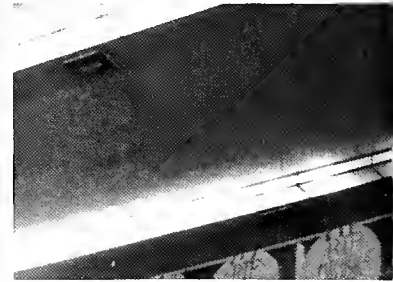

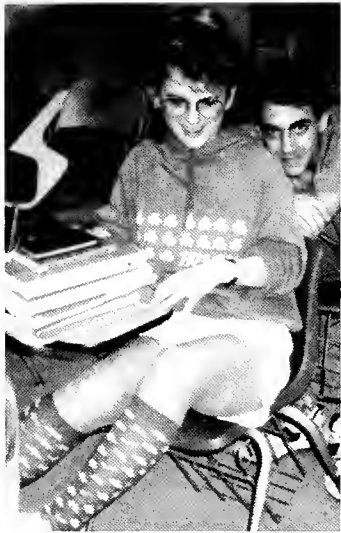

Chris Muzinic and Greg Greenland trying to get the time

With final deadlines for the 89-90 yearbook in February, activities after that point obviously could not be included in that edition. Therefore, in order to include such activities as: the Winter and Spring plays, Spring sports, Wai Napolo, SADD assembly, Big Show, Commencement and Prom, we created a looking back section to accomodate these activities.

The accomplishments of this year's J.V. Baseball team were as great. The best record in history was achieved, 26-1. A record 25 straight wins also beat last year's 24 straight wins. An undefeated G.C.C. season at 14-0 and a sixth straight G.C.C. title were turned in by the team. A strong pitching staff recorded seven shutouts and held their opponents to only one run on seven other games. The offense scored 282 runs, averaging over 10 runs a game, to their opponents 48 runs, a less than two run average.

Girls have frustrating season

The 1990 softball season saw the Panthers finish with a 5-9 ledger in the G.C.C. and a 7-17 overall record. For a second straight season, Euclid combined a difficult schedule with a young lineup as they build for the future. It was a tough season for the J.V. softball team as they were short in numbers and weak on offense early on. The J.V. team overcame injuries, position changes and a nine game losing streak to finish 6-13.

Annie

Big show turns out to be huge success

The 1990 Big Show took Euclid by storm. The production was the popular tale of the little orphan "Annie." Six audiences packed the auditorium each night and responded with six standing ovations.

The show was painstakingly put together by the director Ms. Bambic, the vocal music director Mr. Newell, orchestra director Mr. Alspaugh, choreographer Ms. Sally Parrino and the technical director Mr. Black. Long hours and large headaches molded the show into the great production that it was.

Annie toils with her fellow orphans under the cruel Ms. Hannigan, all the while, dreaming of finding her real parents. Luck stops in when the millionaire Oliver Warbucks adopts Annie, with the encouragement of his secretary, Grace Farrell. The child has a great effect on Warbucks by turning his hard business personality into a soft-hearted sentimentality. He immediately begins a search for Annie's real parents brings con-men into the show who are out for the $50,000 reward, con-men such as "the Rooster" Hannigan and his girlfriend Lily St. Regis. In the end, good triumphs over greed as "Daddy" Warbucks eventually adopts Annie for good.

Thousands saw "Annie" and none were disappointed. The show was a smashing success, and it also left every cast member with a load of memories which will not easily be erased. "Annie" will live in infamy in the mind who saw it.

Two Short Plays

Once again, the Euclid High School Drama Club presented a Winter play. Actually there were two short plays. The first was "Mirrors", a one-act play and "Where are you going Hollis Jay?", a funny two-act play. The plays were performed twice for the public and once for selected English classes.

In "Mirrors", Fred, the father, isn't sure if his family or his psychologist is real. The play is really taking place inside of his head but the audience doesn't know what is going on until the end of the play. Even after its over, no one knows for sure who is or isn't real.

The second play, "Where are you going, Hollis Jay?" was a comedy about two college kids who fall in love. Even though they have trouble expressing their feelings for each other, the audience knows exactly what's going on in their minds.

The plays were directed by Miss Sue Amato and made for an enjoyable evening.

Re-establishing Tradition

Spring Play returns to Euclid

The 1989-90 theater season finished with the production of the famous high school play, "The Curious Savage." This show had been staged at Euclid in past years, but its return was quite symbolic in itself. The Spring Play was not run at the end of the 1988-1989 year, so Mr. McGuinness wanted this production to re-establish the glory of the post winter drama tradition.

Veteran actor and former Euclid High School teacher Frank Molaro was brought in to direct the play. The performers benefitted from the opinions of an outside source and it gave them a chance to showcase their talents in the eyes of experience.

The play was a story of greed versus remembrance of a lost one. The Savage family of Lilly Belle (Jennifer Mason), Samuel (Jim Masterson) and Titus (W. Castrovince) decide to commit their stepmother Ethel (Lisa Hunt) for her "irresponsible actions" since their father's death. However, Mrs. Savage has taken her share of the estate to be given away in the form of a memorial fund in honor of her husband. When the children demand the money to be returned, Mrs. Savage fights for her memorial fund with the help of the inmates of the "big house": Shirley May (Debra Long), Hannibal (Jeff Syrone), Jeff (Anthony Cirino), Florence (Sonja Jones) and Mrs. Paddy (Wendy Bydash). The cast was rounded out by the ever helpful nurse Miss Willie (Katie Ells) and the wise Doctor Emmett (Tom Kermode).

The play was the swan song for the seniors of the cast. Unfortunately, their final performances were seen by few. It's a shame the attendance of the arts has slowly declined, because those who aren't witnesses to the productions which Euclid has to offer are missing out on the incredible talent they possess. Take the time to attend some of the productions and broaden your cultural horizons. You can never expand them too far.

Live Healthy

On April 3, 1990 the Health Fair was presented in the old gym. It was organized by Mrs. Jan Carlson and Miss Pat Buck. It consisted of many health screenings and demonstrations dealing with such topics as: Blood pressure, blood sugar, body fat, cholesterol, lung capacity and many other health related subjects. Many agencies had booths set up to distribute literature to interested students. Students could come to the demonstrations during their lunch periods or some entire classes attended. The purpose was to get students interested in living healthy lives.

Don't Drive Drunk SADD shows perils of driving drunk

The Students Against Driving Drunk presented an assembly showing the dangers inherent in driving while under the influence of alcohol. Some students were picked to 'die' in alcohol related accidents. Their obituaries were read and alcohol related accident pictures were shown during the assembly. Tombstones for the 'victims' adorned the balcony. The students also had the opportunity to listen to an actual victim of a drunk driver who was permanently handicapped.

Tracy was permanently disabled by a drunk driver and talked to students at the assembly.

Swinging to the music

In March of 1990, Euclid High School had the pleasure of listening to one of the finest college jazz ensembles in the country. The South Carolina State Jazz Ensemble. The ensemble had the classic elements of a jazz band such as trombones, saxophones and trumpets. They also had quite a few soloists in their ensemble that sounded like they were professional musicians. The ensemble played a combination of contemporary jazz and some modern jazz which blended well. The group was well received by everyone who attended.

Student Council sponsors Prom for senior citizens

Student Council again sponsored a Prom for senior citizens. It was a fun night where citizens from the Euclid community came to the high school and were treated by the members of Student Council to a fun evening of dancing and treats. This event has become very popular and the students and senior citizens get a chance to dress up and show off.

Citizenship, CEC, awards are given to students who show a high degree of interest in a class and go out of their way to strive for achievement. They show that the student is trying to accomplish a great deal in the class. They are not necessarily given to the student with the highest grade. The purpose of these awards was to someone, other than the best student, a chance to get some recognition.

On May 24, 1990 the annual Senior Awards assembly took place in the Little Theater. Its purpose was to give recognition to all the academic awards that were given to the class of 1990. Awards were presented by either school administrators or by representatives from the many organizations that gave the awards. Some of the awards were plaques or certificates but many of them were scholarships which would help the recipients in higher education.

The National Honor Society held its induction at the end of the school year. There was a breakfast for all the candidates in the cafeteria and then the induction was held in the Auditorium for those who made the requirements for induction. The NHS is for students who have achieved in service to the community as well as scholastically.

The End... And The Beginning

The 1990 Prom was held on Wednesday June 6 at Landerhaven Country Club for the third consecutive year. The evening included dinner and dancing, ending at midnight with the Prom theme song "Wonderful Tonight." Afterwards, breakfast was served at the Normandy Party Center. These couples danced the night away until 4 A.M.

Senior Commencement took place the Saturday following Prom at 3 P.M. at the Front Row Theatre. Salutatorian Deborah L. Sarpolis and Valedictorian Jennifer Mason both gave emotional speeches, making Commencement a solemn occasion. Principal William McGuinness, Superintendent Kurt Stanic, and Board of Education President Kay Van Ho remarked on the Class of 1990.

FINAL MOMENTS

Thank You

The staff of the 1991 Euclidian would like to extend thanks to all who helped to make this book possible. First and foremost, thanks have to go to our advisor, Mr. Von Benken for the many long hours of hard work and leadership that had to be put in to get the entire operation going and to keep it going. Others to be thanked are: Ohio School Pictures for supplying film and processing for the many pictures that appear in the book and for taking many of the team pictures, senior and underclass pictures, Josten's Yearbook Company for putting it all together in such an artistic manner, Jan Kehn for arranging photography dates and supplying needed material, the writers and photographers who contributed their time, Jim Presot and his Marketing Education class for selling ads, Carla Matiaska and Rebecca Karnak for devoting many hours of their time, and last but not least, the entire student body at Euclid High School without which this book could not exist.

Staff

Editor-in-Chief: Carla Matiaska

Copy Staff: Carla Matiaska, Rebecca Karnak, Bob Schmeling, Jennie Ayers, Scott Gould, Jeff Kaleal, Amy Ransdell, Ed Galosi, Rob Galosi, Kevin Vance.

Contributors (1 or 2 stories): Meredith FitzGerald, Liz Mazzei, Lisa Riedel, Mike Karabinus, Ann Kelly, Irene Dejak, Bill Aube, Kristen Sarpolis, Stacey Brown, Lynn Gessler.

Data Input: Carla Matiaska, Bob Schmeling, Jennie Ayers, Rebecca Karnak, Lisa Riedel, Jeff Kaleal, Kristen Sarpolis, Julie Juratic.

Colophon

700 copies of the 1991 Euclidian were printed by the Jostens Printing and Publishing Division at State College, Pennsylvania. The book is printed on Gloss 191 paper stock and includes 48 pages of full color, 32 of which are the senior photographs. Paragraphs were indented with both sides justified.

Body copy, Scoreboxes and the index were set in 10 point Times Roman type. Picture captions, Photo credits and Portrait names were set in 8 point Times Roman type. The Folio tabs were set in 14 point Times Roman type. The Subheadlines were set in 24 point Century Schoolbook Bold type while the Headlines were set in 36 point Century Schoolbook Bold type. The Division headlines were set in 60 point Helvetica type. All copy is set using the Autocopy I program supplied by Josten's Yearbook Company and running on an MS-DOS compatible computer.

The cover was designed by Anthony Merritt. Pages were submitted to the plant on five deadlines, November 5, December 3, December 21, January 21 and the final deadline was February 25. All the color pages had to be in the first deadline. Since the final deadline was in late February, nothing that occurred after that time could be included in the book.

Photography: Ed Boyle, Bob Schmeling, Scott Gould, Paulnetta Wilcox, Meredith FitzGerald, India Ford, Rebecca Karnak, Liz Mazzei, Lisa Riedel, Carol Morgan Brown, Ed Galosi, Rob Galosi, Bill Aube, Jeff Kaleal.

Regrets

The 1990-1991 school year is history. Many interesting and significant events occurred during that time. As far as Euclid High School was concerned it had just about reached its smallest population. For more than a decade its enrollment had been dropping due to decreasing birth rate and families moving away. This trend is hopefully going to reverse in the near future with the elementary and middle schools seeing an increase in enrollment.

With the lower and lower enrollment, it has been harder and herder to get students to participate in the many activities that Euclid High School has to offer. Hopefully, with an increased enrollment, there will be an increased participation in school activities. Unfortunately, with the widespread employment of high school students in after-school jobs their time may be too limited to spend much of it on extracurricular activities.

Because of this, the Euclidian's staff was small and most of the work was done by the advisor who tried to do his best but there is only so much that could be done. We sincerely apologize for any errors or omissions that occurred but you have to understand that this is only a high school publication and mistakes happen. Anyone was welcome to help on the book this year and would also be welcome to help next year. If you don't like the way something was done this year then help change it for next year. Your ideas and help are always welcome.
